EDITORIAL

By Robert B. Stork

Arrangements have been made for the location of the 1952 INTERNATIONAL CHESS MATCH between WASHINGTON STATE CHESS PLAYERS and those from BRITISH COLUMBIA. Mr. Husby, Washington Chess Federation Secretary, has announced that it is agreed to be held on Sunday, August 10, 1952 at the 'Seven Cedars Pavilion' in Mount Vernon, Wn. The match will start at one O'clock Pacific Standard Time, which is 2:00 P. M. for those living in zones of Daylight Saving Time.

Mr. Husby has invited Mr. Elmer Zengalis to attend and adjudicate whatever games do not get finished. For the information of those who have not played in the Seven Cedars Pavilion at Mount Vernon, it is located on Hiway 99 on the North city limits.

This event is always the largest chess event of the year and a great enjoyment for the families of chess players as well as the chess players themselves. Ask your wife or girl friend to fix up a picnic lunch, and come along for a wonderful time.

Last year the players from British Columbia won the magnificent 'Peace Arch' trophy, so we need every available player to win it back this year. If you can possibly make it, be sure to be there. Everyone may participate, regardless of ability. Players will be matched as near to strength as possible; although this is a very difficult task and if you do happen to get under matched, please remember 'last minute' entries cause some confusion. Only one game will be played, and you should be ready to return home by 6:00 P. M. I hope you will all be there.

One of the three remaining matches in the Puget Sound League has been reported and here are the results. Olympia lost to Amidon's Teams by a margin of 7 to 3.

Olympia	3	Amidon's Team	7
Joseph Cerretelli	1½	James Amidon	1½
Ellis Ayer	0	Ted Warner	2
C. R. Harmenson	1	J. Burnett	1
H. E. Yocom	1½	Alexander	1½
Charles Yocom	0	Fat Corbett	2

I am very sorry to announce that I have to withdraw from all Washington Chess activities, including my position as WASHINGTON CHESS LETTER Director. I have had a great deal of enjoyment in this capacity, and obtained a great deal of experience. I have made a great many friends through the activities sponsored by the Washington Chess Federation and I truly regret leaving all of you; however my physician has advised me to find a climate which has milder year around weather, and I think I will do this. Thank you for the excellent co-operation I have received in editing the WASHINGTON CHESS LETTER. I believe we have one of the best Chess magazines in the United States, and I believe its continued growth is inevitable. Farewell to each one of you. I feel honored to have had the privilege of knowing each one of you.

NOTES FROM EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS

by O. W. LaFreniere

In my opinion there has always been too little news of events in this half of the state, so I have set about to remedy this situation. I hope you will enjoy this column; I will try to make it as interesting as possible. It will appear probably every other month.

YAKIMA COUNTY CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP

O. W. LaFreniere nosed out William H. Hoge with one game point to repeat last year's achievement of winning the annual Spring Round Robin Open sponsored by the Yakima City Chess Club. His score of 10 won, 1 lost, and 1 drawn was closely followed by Hoge's of 9-1-1. The drawn game between the runner-up and the champion was an exciting struggle, but it is not worth printing.

In third place was Cpl. Robert A. Karch (who, incidentally, is vieing for the Fort Lewis Championship) with 3-1. After piling up a good score in the first night of play he was forced by military obligations to withdraw from the tournament. He was a temporary resident of Yakima at the Yakima Firing Center.

There were fourteen players entered this year, about half of last year's more successful event. The single round robin system was in force this year instead of the double round robin formerly used. The tournament was incorrectly directed, and as a result, many players did not meet each other. The city's two papers did not give the event sufficient publicity to attract players, explaining the low number of entrants.

(Talking of poorly run tournaments, Washington has certainly had its share of them. Watch soon in the WCL for a new series, "How to Run a Tournament." It seems there is insufficient literature of that type available, and Washington's past flop tournaments prove it!)

MARTIN WINS EASTERN WASHINGTON

William H. Martin of Ellensburg Repeated his performance of two years ago by clearing a field of seven players in a round robin event to win the Eastern Wash. District Championship $5\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{2}$. Runner-up Eli Treisman of Yakima followed closely on his heels with 5-1, drawing the champion and Mr. C. Groot of Richland, who took third. Groot lost to Martin, and drew George Carter of Grandview besides Treisman. The two time champion was awarded a trophy for his work, and second and third places were given subscriptions to the Washington Chess Letter.

Nine players originally entered the event, but two were forced to withdraw. Because of the speed of the games and the smaller number of players, the system was switched from a five round Swiss to a six round round-robin. The event was played in the Yakima Business College May 17 and 18 under the direction of O. W. LaFreniere.

Going back in history two years, the Eastern District Tournament in Wenatchee in 1950 had the same number of entrants with probably a stronger field. In that event also, Martin swept through to take it 5-0. This year Wenatchee was not represented. In 1951 an affair hardly worth being called a tournament was played in Yakima. It had four entrants and suffered a withdrawal, leaving W. H. Hoge, John Fauverge, and LaFreniere tied for the title.

Players in this half of the state look hopefully toward an even better event next year, this year's success being an indicative reminder that it will be.

SUMMER LETHARGY HITS CLUBS

The summer heat has slowed down club activity tremendously. Richland's teeming new club has shut down entirely for the summer. Pasco has cut its meetings to one a month, and Yakima City Club's playing membership has been cut in half. The formerly powerful Wenatchee Club became dormant over a year ago.

THE ZEMGALIS EXHIBITION

The auditorium of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer Saturday, May 24th, overflowed with one of the largest crowds ever seen at a Seattle chess exhibition. Approximately one hundred and fifty spectators watched our new chess master, ELMARS ZEMGALIS, compete simultaneously against fifty of the strongest Puget Sound chess players. Play got under way at 8.30 p.m., after brief introductory remarks by ROYAL BROUGHAM of the P-I, which, together with the Seattle Chess Club, sponsored the exhibition, and instructions by Seattle's other well known master, OLAF ULVESTAD, who seconded ZEMGALIS.

It was a long grueling match for the Latvian master, as he encountered stubborn opposition on nearly all the boards. Although plainly weary at the finish, he never faltered and wound up the play in the wee hours of Sunday morning with the excellent score of forty one wins, six draws and only three losses. The proud winners were David Casler of Seattle, Clyde Schmoyer of West Seattle and R. M. Collins of Tacoma. Those who drew were Edward Arnold, Nelson Robinson, Theodore Davidsen, Dan Wade, O. W. Manney and our promising young expert Max Bader, Jr.

The chess players of Washington owe an especial debt of gratitude to MR. ROYAL BROUGHAM of the P-I. In connection with his program of sponsoring the immigration to the United States of famous European athletes, Mr. Brougham had the vision and inspiration to include a notable representative of the Royal Game. Mr. Brougham also sparked the simultaneous exhibition and secured the use of the P-I auditorium. Credit is also due Glenn Muller, C. C. Bushnell and others of the Seattle Chess Club who did the behind-the-scenes work in connection with the exhibition.

ELMARS ZEMGALIS, a native of Riga, Latvia, 28 years of age, and his charming young wife Ceceily, arrived in the United States on May 1 and expect to make Seattle their home. Mr. Zemgalis was fortunate in escaping from behind the Iron Curtain in 1944. In Germany since 1946 he has competed in twelve master tournaments, winning six, tying with Bogoljuboff for first place in one, placing second in three and in third place in two. In a number of those tournaments he finished ahead of such well known international masters as Bogoljuboff, Saemisch, Unzicker, Rossolimo, and also O'Kelly. His original and brilliant style may best be illustrated by two games:

THE OTHER WOMAN

When my husband and I married I was under the impression that he was a normal human being. An All-American boy grown up, prepared to settle down in marital harmony, help tend babies, fix leaky faucets, pay off the mortgage and stay at home nights with his spouse.

That was before I found out about chess. To be sure during our courtship days he had mentioned that he used to play chess. He gave me to understand it was a thing of the past. So little did I know of the nature of the chess player that it would not have bothered me if he had said he still played. I would have merely thought a nice, dignified hobby, much more intellectual than shooting pool. I even thought that in my later years when more vigorous pursuits had lost their charm, I would induce him to take the game up again and teach me to play. I envisioned us, two sweet old people passing away the long winter evenings over a chess board. A fire burning in the fireplace, a cocker spaniel sleeping on the rug at our feet, our old workworn hands gently handling the lovely old chess pieces. As my husband nodded over the board I would say tenderly, "Your move, dear."

Since that time my eyes have been opened. This is no game for grandma and grandpa. They certainly deserve a less soul searing avocation in their declining years. Both grandma and grandpa might as well sit around giving each other shots of marijuana.

However, I felt no sense of foreboding when chess reclaimed him for her own. When he decided to play on a chess team I thought it was nice that he was going to have an interest outside the home. Especially such a dull one. Much better than sitting around in taverns eyeing the gals, or going fishing and bringing home a catch for me to clean or even occupying himself in the basement making little tables and chairs that always have one leg shorter than the others. What an innocent was I.

More and more time was devoted to chess. Chess was moving in and marital harmony was moving out. How well he had concealed the details and ramifications of this horrible vice. Once chess taps you on the shoulder you are hers for life. He has borne me, an unwilling observer, clear back to his highschool days to hear tales of his feats and defeats, move by move. Conversation as I had known it became a thing of the past. My inquiries about new slip covers, my narrations of the babies' cute doings and sayings go unnoted. Instead he informs me that he has been going over that game he lost last night and he had a win there if he'd just seen it. Or, he has been going over that game he won last night and it was a sure loss but his opponent blundered. This is no longer a husband and father, this is a chess automaton.

You observe I always refer to chess as she. Yes, chess is a lady. I use the word lady merely to indicate that she is feminine gender but she's no lady. I would choose another word but it is censorable. She is forever leading her admirers on with promises of wins. But when the moment of crises arrives you see she has deserted you for your opponent. Let your opponent enjoy her favors while he may, she will leave him for another before long.

Imagine if I tired of my rivalry with lady chess and decided to divorce my faithless husband, claiming alienation of affections and naming lady chess as correspondent!

And now my husband is starting to eye our two innocent infants, mentally measuring them for a chess board. Over my dead body, dear, over my dead body!

With two games to play, Reshevsky has already clinched the title of Champion of the Non-Communitistic World, with a score of 10½-5½ over Miguel Najdorf of Argentina. The two remaining games cannot affect the final result.

Reshevsky took a commanding lead during the New York series of eight games, winning 6 and drawing 2. In the five games at Mexico City Najdorf staged a rally to win 3 and draw 2. Starting the five game final series at San Salvadore Reshevsky won the 14th game, drew the 15th, and won the 16th. In the 16th game Reshevsky's 30-move win was most impressive of the match.

No one suspected that the outcome would be so one-sided. Najdorf had gone undefeated for over a year playing almost continuously in master tourneys and Reshevsky had proven his own great skill by finishing no worse in any tourney since the 1948 World Championships. But Reshevsky is famous for determination, refusal to quit, and incisive play in time pressure.

HOLLYWOOD

Svetozar Gligoric topped the Hollywood International Tournament with 7½-1½, while Arturito Pomar placed second with 7-2 and Herman Steiner third with 6-3. Arthur Dake and Lionel Joyner tied for fourth with 5-4.

A qualifying tourney, held to place the tenth man in the Hollywood tournament ended in a victory for Raymond Martin with 4½-1½. W. H. Steckel was second with 3½-2½. Arthur Spiller was third with 3-3 and Irving Rivise fourth with 1-5 in the double round-robin event. Martin lost a game to Steckel and drew one with Rivise. Raymond Martin placed ninth in the main event. ahead of Mrs. Graf-Stevenson.

SAN JOSE

With a match score of 6-0 the San Jose Chess Club won the Central California Chess League title compiling a game score of 41½-14½. Second place went to Sacramento with 4½-1½ and 38½-17½, while Fresno placed third in the 7 team league with 3½-2½ and 28½-18½.

Top individual scorer was P. Smith of Fresno with 5½-½ on first board. Bean of Pittsburg was second with 4-2, and Adams of San Jose was third with 3-2. The event can be compared to the Puget Sound League in Washington.

NEV. OPEN

William T. Adams of San Jose (Calif.) won the Nevada Open Championship at Reno and possession of the beautiful Raymond A. Smith trophy with a 7-1 score in the 30 player 8 round Swiss event. Adams was undefeated, but drew with M.M. Gedence and James Jackson. Gedence placed second with 6½-1½, winning the Nevada State title. He was also undefeated but drew with Adams, Jackson, and Louis Page of Salt Lake City. Third and fourth on S-B points with equal 5½-2½ scores were atomic scientist W. Bendetti of Las Vegas and Salt Lake City Chess Club president Farrell Clark.

This the strongest of Nevada tourneys had five of its entrants from California, six from Utah, five from Idaho and thirteen from Nevada. It was sponsored by R. A. Smith, co-owner of the famous Harolds Club, who provided trophies, prizes, gala banquet, special prizes, including a special $100 prize to the blind Idaho player Don Crawford for his win against Clark

Here are the last few lines in the "Laws of Chess."

ANNEXEE, part 6.

6. A move shall be made by transferring the man touched directly towards the square to be occupied, and the man must be quitted immediately as it has been placed on that square. (Hovering is one of the chessplayer's worst habits-Ed).

In Castling the King shall first be moved and afterwards the Rook.

In promoting a Pawn the player shall immediately remove the Pawn from the board and place the substituted piece on the vacated square.

In capturing, the Player shall immediately remove the captured man from the board.

7. No comments of any kind, or suggestions as to drawing or abandoning the game shall be added to a sealed move.

8. The player who perceives that his Opponent's clock is going should call his attention to the fact.

9. Neither Player nor Opponent shall in any way whatsoever distract the attention of, or cause annoyance to, the other. (That means psychological chess is disallowed-Ed.)

That brings the "Laws of Chess" to an end. Before closing this column, however, I wish to bring to your attention a new type of notation which should be very valuable to all of us should we ever have occasion to use it.

It is an international notation sent me by Charles Hardinge, who uses it with some postal players in Holland. Here is an example. (See Diagram.)

- | | | | | |
|----------|-------|----|------|-------|
| 1. P-K4 | P-K4 | 1. | 5254 | 5755 |
| 2. N-KB3 | N-QB3 | 2. | 7163 | 2836 |
| 3. P-R6 | PxB | 3. | 6116 | 2/x16 |
| 4. P-KR4 | Q-N4 | 4. | 8284 | 4875 |

18	28	38	48	58	68	78	88
17	27	37	47	57	67	77	87
16	26	36	46	56	66	76	86
15	25	35	45	55	65	75	85
14	24	34	44	54	64	74	84
13	23	33	43	53	63	73	83
12	22	32	42	52	62	72	82
11	21	31	41	51	61	71	81

(The game is merely a sample and certainly not a recommended opening!)

You can see how efficient this method is once you learn it. It is unnecessary to use a dash between the compound numbers, just an 'x' when one captures.

In closing this column, I want to thank Montgomery Major who sent me the material, and Charles Hardinge who sent me suggestions. Of course praise and thanks are due Bob Merk who did the job of preparing the stencils.

CHIPMAN-LAFRENIERE MATCH

Dennis Chipman, State Junior Champion, and O. W. LaFreniere, Yakima County Champion, played the first two games of a three game match at the Seattle Chess Club on April 6 to test their strength after their close placing in the State Junior Tournament. The score stands $1\frac{1}{2}-\frac{1}{2}$ in favor of LaFreniere. When the third game will be played is unknown. The number of games to be played may be expanded.

"POEM" in honor of Elmer Zemgalis.

* * * * *

I had not planned to run two "poems" in succession but I find in my waste-basket a parody on Lord Byron's "The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold" which though printed 75 years ago in the British Chess Magazine seems to have been specially created to honor Elmer Zemgalis, who speaking nationally, may have been a "displaced person" but who was far from "displaced" when he faced 50 of the States best players in a simultaneous show.

This "poem", like the "Old Chess Board" has a sad, sad theme, but in chess how are you going to get away from gloom.

Well, here it comes, and don't blame me. I just copied it. And as far as that goes, I have much worse to follow. Even limericks - no less.

THE CHESS CHAMP.

The chess Champion came down like a wolf on the fold,
And his fifty opponents looked sheepish and cold,
And their bright gleaming eyes were like stars on the sea,
They were all in a funk, Sir - between you and me.

ALL. ? ? ? . All - except Tompkins.

As the leaves of the forest were the book-leaves they'd read,
All dealing with chess things to keep in the head.
As the leaves in a forest where bombs had been thrown,
They found all their moves either mixed up or flown.

ALL. ? ? ? . All - except Tompkins.

For the Chess-master's methods soon had them aghast,
As he blew baccy smoke on them all as he passed.
And the eyes of the players waxed deadly and still,
And you might well have thought, the whole bunch were ill.

ALL. ? ? ? . All - except Tompkins.

And there lay the steeple, with his nostrils all wide,
Of true Staunton pattern, but robbed of his pride.
The bishops were traded, and castles laid low,
Till all the club members looked burdened with woe.

ALL. ? ? ? . All - except Tompkins.

And there sat the top-board man, haggard and pale,
With his thumb in his mouth, and his teeth in his nail,
And the rest were all silent as figures in stone,
Their glances unlifted, their next moves unknown.

ALL. ? ? ? . All - except Tompkins.

And the Chessists of Somewhere, are loud in their wail,
Not a draw to their credit, no mates - fresh or stale.
A King of the chess world they'd met o'er the board
And they fall in a night to the night of that lord.

ALL. ? ? ? . Yep - even Tompkins.

TOURNAMENT DIRECTOR'S REPORT AND SCHEDULE

The 1952 chess season is over and in the season's largest event the University of Washington won the Puget Sound League team championship. The Seattle Chess Club finished second. In the tournaments sponsored by the WCF Gerald Schain was the first champion crowned. He won the Wood Pusher's Tournament finishing with a 4-0 score. There were twenty players in this event which was quite a few more than the year before when the tournament was first inaugurated. Outside the Federation but well worth mention here was the Seattle City Chess Tournament. Fourteen players entered and when the smoke of the battle lifted one J.L. Sheets had lifted the crown from last year's champion, Charles Joachim. This was the first tournament Mr. Sheets had participated in since 1947.

O.W. Manney won the Washington State Speed title in a fourteen man round-robin and followed that up by also winning the Washington State Open. Twenty-six players saw action in this event, a drop from last year's record thirty-seven entries.

Olaf Ulvestad returned to the chess picture here and captured the big plum, the State Championship Tournament. It wasn't easy though and took "an extra inning" to edge out runner-up Art Murray.

Only nine players showed up for the Puget Sound Open won by this writer. This was quite a drop from last year's field of nineteen. Defending champ Alex Suchobeck wasn't around to defend his title.

Dennis Chipman won the State Junior Chess Tournament. Eleven competed for this title, a nice improvement over the year before.

So that takes care of last year's tournaments. Ahead lies the Chess International, Washington vs. British Columbia. The place and time have not as yet been determined but we want revenge for last year's narrow defeat, 15½ to 14½.

This writer is more concerned with the future than the past however and in order to make the coming season more interesting I've come to the conclusion (with some help) that the Fall months of September and October when chess interest is keen, are too barren of important tournaments. Instead the tournaments are delayed in large part until after the beginning of the new year and then these tournaments are crowded into the early part of Spring when chess interest is getting low. The 1953 State Chess Champ in my opinion can be crowned in 1952. Last season the Woodpusher and Speed Tournaments were the only scheduled tournaments played before January. The chess enthusiast wants stronger fare than this during the period when his interest is at its peak.

So I am going to change the scheduling of the tournaments radically this year and I would like letters from all as to whether this or the old way are better.

 POSTAL CHESS EDITOR

Here is a comment received from one of our postal chess players who has been playing for several years but for only one year of postal chess. We thought that the comment is well worth passing on.

"I find that postal chess is an excellent hobby and that I not only have kept my skill and interest alive but have learned far more than by many short, quickly played games. I have developed more in one year than I had before in three, it seems."

Results of games reported completed.

That game in section 51-A-12 between Coubrough and Dolle to a draw must have been quite a game. We hazard a guess that each of them in going over the game can point out where a different line of play might have resulted in a win. Why not send it in to our Games Editor for publication and comment.

WCF Postal Chess tournaments give you an opportunity to test your skill against other players whom you might not otherwise have an opportunity of meeting. Many fine friendships are made in this way.

Entry fee is only 50¢ for a section of five players. Each player to play two games with each of four opponents. One game as white and the other as black.

Send entries to Postal Chess Editor, R. R. Merk, 1026 E 71 Seattle 5, Washington.
