Most tournament directors no longer provide any equipment. Unless the announcement specifically states that they are provided, bring your own sets, boards, and clocks to assure you will have equipment to play on.

With the many new players at tournaments, there has been a real lack of chess clocks. If you are an active tournament player, why not get yourself a clock instead of griping at the directors.

YES, YOU GUESSED IT. PRAC. #20 TURNED OUT TO BE A COOK. NOBODY HAD THE FULL SOLUTION. IT WAS UNINTENTIONAL. I FINALLY SAW THE LIGHT WHEN GOING OVER BOB ALLYN'S SUBMISSION. I AM SORRY FOR THIS MISTAKE. KOLTANOWSKI GAVE 1. R-N3 ONLY.

EVENTS RATED

Washington Junior Open, Mukilteo Open, Pacific Northwest Open (2 sections), Point Grey Open, Chelan County Open, Capitol City Open (3 sections), Mitchell Memorial Open, Grand Coulee Dam Open, Walla Walla - Tri-City Match, Portland Fall Open (2 sections), Washington Woodpushers, University of Washington Open, Last Exit Open, Wide Open, Pitt 3 1/2 - Gray 2 1/2. The list includes all players active since October 15, 1972. Coming in January: The Annual list, some 1500 players long.

The new format is intended to be both more legible and more informative. Note that a player's rating is now to the LEFT of his name, which should be easier to read with the high-density printing. Thanks to Bob Karch for the suggestion. The "/nn" following some players' names is the new Provisional designation, where "nn" is the game count. Established ratings have no game counts.

Followups department: By popular demand matchs will continue to be Northwest ratable. If I receive a match report with a really unlikely result I will send it on to the appropriate Federation Secretary for verification before rating it. So keep sending those match reports in, fellows.

This seems a good opportunity to repeat the match rating rules for the Morthwest. No unrated players, four or more games, no faster time limit than 40 moves per hour, both players' signatures on the rating report, and the $1.00 rating fee. Remember that rating points gained in match play need not be considered when players are selected for Invitational events, at least until your Tournament results confirm that you do indeed play at your rated strength.

field as he coasted to a First Place over a field that was disappointingly small, but with many fine games played. With so many B and C players, upsets were frequent, and made the race for prises exciting. Jim Franke lost a difficult game to Eero Jaaska right as both approached time control; and Jaaska blow a Queen to Heathcote just as both had made time control with seconds to spare. Dave Calkins was master of the B section by decisevly beating Chase in the final round . Robert Stroke continued to be the Top C player, while Tom Shanley scored a fine last round victory over McCurdy for the D prise.

In the Adult Section upsets were the order of the day with 8 draws in the second round with John CLARKE drawing Gerry LASSEN, an expected front runner. Then Glenn MORIN the 13 year old Burnaby giant killer drew another favorite Darrel HUNT with a good game. Sylio MORISSETTE of Richmond showed his power against still another favorite from NANAIMO, Chris JONES in a drawn game. It appeared the way was cleared for a It appeared the way was cleared for a show down between MCLAREN, SCOONES, HAINES and MOLNAR for 1st then in round 3 SCOONES playing white against HAINES appeared in a strong mating threat. Brian McLAREN in the mean time won over MOLNAR and advanced to the lead. At this point EMIG and JEWITT were bunched with others after drawn 2nd games and things looked like a peak when SCOONES and MCLAREN met for round 4. Dan went into a clearly won end game and went ahead with 31, but the dark horses EMIG and JEWITT now made their moves on the pack with Martin playing a solid game against the expert LASSEN for a win with connected past pawns giving the crush. Earl JEWITT made his move winning over the much improved Richard JEANPIERRE who had drawn EMIG in round 2 with a good game. MORISSETTE set back Duncan HAINES with another draw in 4 taking him out of the running with 3 points. It was all set for Round five with Dan SCOONES playing white heavily favored over Earl JEWITT, and Martin EMIG, facing the strong Chris JONES, with black as well both EMIG AND JEWITT seemed the underdogs. Then it happened, a blunder by SOOONES in 12 moves and it was all over, a crushing blow to Dan but great victory to Earl on a threatened mate or loss of Queen. Earl was set and watched for the outcome of EMIG-JONES. Martin came through again with connected past pawns the powerful threat winning. Then a further set back to Darrel HUNT with JEANPIERRE playing strongly forced victory from him leaving him 23rd in the field. Played with the time 40 in 1 hours the top players requested it be slowed on the second day. Expert Harry MOORE showed up to register and requested it be slowed both days and when refused would not enter the event. Games could not commence until 12:30 Sunday and the time problem was forseen but fingers were crossed, however the EMIG-LASSEN game went into the second hour with a difficult struggle and the 5:30 start time long past. An important last round could not have them paired as a draw so we waited, then a resignation and the time 6:20 and quickly made, announced and the time control changed back to 40 in 12. This caused a problem itself as some players didn't catch the time and played 45 in 2. The EMIG-JONES game was stopped when it appeared Martins time ran out on move 32 however on checking closer JONES was over using 1:38 EMIG only 1 hour and found them playing 45 in 2. JONES was declared lost based on the announced time control but the appeal was referred to a players jury rulling in favor of the players continuing under 45 in 2 to complete their game. This was accepted and continued. Now I know they play what is stated in the notice and with out change or problems arise. Something new with each event. Larry KIRSTEIN.

The first Point Grey Open attracted 32 players. The U.B.C. playing site was well lit, but the players often were bothered by the buzzers which rang twice an hour on the first day.

In the top section, David Powell deserved-ly took home the honours with a series of fine defensive games. For some reason, his opponents' attacks always seemed to boomerang. Alan Hill, the runner up, obtained a promising position against Powell in the final round, but was unable to press home his advantage.

In group 2, Ben Kruger set himself up as the new 'Berlin Wall', obtaining the only perfect score in the tournament. Playing very steadily, Ben showed that he will soon be one of the big men of B.C. Chess. Roy Molnar, a promising junior player, came second.

Joe Mach won the third section with some impressive positional play, in a section which was unfortunately marred by four for-

Thirteen-year old Glenn Morin won the fourth section without apparent difficulty, We will surely be hearing his name again in the future.

In section five, however, it was not you-th, but experience which triumphed, as George Gerlei came through in a very close-ly contested section. Thus the oldest and the youngest players in the tournament came out winners.

A large number of players forfeited game: s without notifying the tournament director. These were Brown, Cha, Forrer, Tetlock, Innes and O'Reilly.

Northern News by Mike BATEMAN.

Friends, Romans, and country men, lend me your games. If in truth you fear for the standard of that which you submit, you will find that all your fears are unfounded. In fact, eyeball the printing and you will note that all that is printed does not glitter. So hesitate not, just send me your games, or send them directly to Larry KIRSTEIN.

My home address is #203 - 1517 Albatross, KITIMAT.

"Take a bite on the apple", said the snake to the patzer, "and you will become as wise as Bobby FISCHER"!!! And he did - and he was!! But in Chess he didnt have a hope in hell...

MOST MEMORABLE GAMES!!

GAME 5 (Jan. 12, 1968)
Here is a game which Berry himself considers to be one of his finest efforts of his early years. His opponent plays a line he found in the Informant, yet J. Berry wins quickly. I myself don't think much of the game, but I have included it anyway. White: J. Berry Black: Crookes

The idea is to put pressure on the QP, which J. Berry disregards.

10.Q-N3! N-B3

It is now clear that Black should have exchanged Pawns before embarking on his plan. Now White's threats take precedence.

Good players often take the Queen's Nite Pawn with the Queen.

J. Berry alertly increases his central preponderance by annexing another Pawn.

A skillful method of releasing the pressure on the middle of his position. J. Berry takes another pawn off.

Utilizing the fact that he has 3 Pawns in the middle and his opponent don't, J. Berry expands.

An interesting position, one might say.

An interesting game, worthy of study by students of chess.

GAME 6 (April 16, 1968)
J. Berry often, it is apparent, plays the Sicilian defense, but in this game he violently dispatches his opponents Pelikan variation. J. Berry's games are often filled with violent blows which beat his enemy's position into a pulp. As in this game.

This move embarrasses Black considerably.

This question mark was naturally awarded by J. Berry himself, as I would hardly criticize a compatriot's play.

However, since he brought it up four year's ago, I agree that this is obviously a stupid move. Any moron can see that RxP is right, since he brought it up.

One sometimes should not take the QNP with your Queen, but this isn't one of those times.

PREPARING TO PLAY WALTER J. GENTALA - Suggestions by Robert A. Karch

WALTER J. GENTALA is a Northwest Expert who regularly uses the Dutch Defense formation when he has Black. Look for the following configuration in two of the following games. I think it would also have been in the third one, except that his opponent exchanged pawns quite early on the d5 square.

WHITE: Steven M.C. Duncan Round 1. Seattle Amateur

- 1. PK3 DVD /.
- 2. PQN3 NKRS 3. BN2 PK 3
- 4. NKB3 BK2
- 5. PB4 00
- 6. PQ4 PQ4 7. QNQ2 PR 3
- 8. BK2 OK
- 9.00 SONO

Compare the position here with the half diagram above. You will note that Black made no attempt to "refute" White's opening strategy, but instead moved his pieces into a pre-conceived formation the Stonewall variation of the Dutch Defense.

10. NN5

11. PB42

A serious positional error. White strongpoints the e5 square, but simultaneously yields e4 to Black. Correct would be the plan PKB3-PK4, forcing open the center to White's advantage. Black could delay but not prevent a White center break on the e4 square.

.... NK5 Black adopts the classical stonewall strategy.

> 12. NR3 QNB3 13. NxN NXN 14. NB2 NB3

We note that Gentala does not deliberately provoke the exchange of pieces.

15. NQ3 BQ2 16. NK5 QRQ 17. RB3 QK2 18. NxB RXN 19. RR3 NK5 20. BKB3 RB3 21. BxN

This exchange opens the f-file to the Black Rook.

BPxB 22. PQB5 BB2 23. PKN4 RR3 24. RXR PXR 25. QK QB3 26. QN3 RN2

From here, it is hard to foresee a Black victory in 13 moves. Certainly. the Black Rook is more actively posted than his counterpart, and the White Bishop is "bad" (i.e., blocked by his own pawns). But, look at the respective Pawn formations - if all the pieces except Kings and Pawns were removed, White could wini Therefore, White should first neutralize Black's temporary advantages and at the same time improve the placement of his own pieces. Here is a possible idea for White:

The point is to first visualize where you want your pieces, and then move them there.

27. RKB? White seems to ignore the danger of having his King and Queen on the same file.

ON3 28. PKR3 PKR4 29. PN5 PR5 30. QN4 PKR3 31. KR PXP 32. PxP?

White goes after the KP on e6 but should have played RKN and also relocated his Bishop on el.

KN2 salvages the draw.

PR6 39. PR4 KN3 40. PN5 KN4 0-1

In this game, we saw Gentala adopt a non-aggressive, rather fixed defensive pattern. He actually emerged from the opening with a positional disadvantage (two doubled pawns) but won when his opponent left his Bishop out of play.

So far, all according to recommended theory (Teil VI. INDISCHE SPEZIALITÄT-EN by Dr Max Euwe), and also identical to Walker-Gentala. At this point, Euwe gives nine plausible continuations for White: 8 PN3, QN3, QQ3, NK5, NK, BB4, QB2, RN, BN5. However, why not meet Black head on? Look at his formation - he strongpoints e4 and is all set to play ... NK5.

8. NO2 Now Black must immediately occupy e4 or forever stay out.

NK5 Let's assume that our opponent, Walt Gentala, would indeed follow through.

CAPITOL CITY OPEN, OLYMPIA, WASHINGTON 4 November 1972

As per published announcement, several "equalstrength" sections were made up, using first Northwest ratings then Olympia Chess Club ratings to help. Experienced Seattle tournament competitors DIGME B. DE LEMEA and DAN A. BAILEY dominated sections AB, while a fractional tie-break was used for section C. All first-place winners were already USCF members, so each received a paid-up extension for one year.

This was a low budget event, introducing players to tournament competition and gaining 15 new members for the Washington Chess Federation. Registration was slow, due to the complicated formula with three different entry fees and also three membership prices. But once past the registration snarl, the rounds gradually caught up to schedule and round 4 was even one hour early!

Main credit for the smooth administration of the tournament must go to the players themselves! We can also thank the Evergreen State College, which furnished a well-lighted, carpeted room, chalkboard, and kept the cafeteria open to accommodate the players.

Sam McKibbin won the open section of the Sagebrush Open by upsetting Dave Collyer in the 4th round to make a perfect score. By doing so he took home the trophy (for which he said he had reserved a place that morning) and $20. Wayne Hatcher and Francis Kirkpatrick split 2nd & 3rd place money taking home $17.50 each. Kirkpatrick upset Larry Rude on his way with Hatcher losing only to McKibbin.

In the reserve section Brent Youlden made a perfect score in taking 1st place & $15. The winner was decided by the last game as Youlden won when Bob Allyn ran out of time of time.

Zack Tucker and Luther Paulson each got $7.50 for their tie for 2nd & 3rd. Their only unwon game was the draw with each other.

This was the 1st tournament sponsored by the Moses Lake Chess Club & has to be rated a great success with 38 players showing up to support us. Everyone showed patience and tolerance of my first attempt to direct a tournament with only 1 or 2 complaints which were resolved. I was ably assisted by Robert Schaden & Ruby Moriwaki, club officers, who were with me from the opening gun through the cleamup, for which there were several helping hands.

I want to extend a special thank you to Larry Allyn and Sam McKibbin who very freely gave of their directing experience when called on.

I ended up with a clock that was left after the tournament. Anyone who lost one can claim it by writing and telling me of the one identifying feature of the clock.

A college is one of the easiest places to organize a chess club. A meeting place can be had for free, student governments pro-vide financial support, and the student body itself is a close community of those most likely to be interested in a chess club.

The first step, naturally, is to become a "recognized student organization." You must locate a faculty advisor, elect some officers, and in some cases present a list of 10 or so potential members. When this information is filed with the director of student union activities, the club becomes "recognized," and the campus scheduling officer can then arrange a meeting room.

Publicity and innovation are vital in attracting members to the club. Meeting time and place must be widely advertised, particularly at the beginning. Innovative activities are necessary to sustain the interest of new-comers. The following are some general ideas, and specific proposals, regarding organization, funding, and activities.

ACTIVITIES

At the first meeting, an intra-club rating system should be devised. Formalized play gives direction, while aimless meetings tend to degenerate into endless rounds of speed chess. Ratings done by computer seem more authentic and prestigious. Invariably some club member, or a friend of one, has the necessary skill and access to equipment.

Team matches are ideal for engaging members in tournament play. The club can be divided against itself, or informal matches can be easily arranged with nearby colleges or cities. If you'd like to see a prison without the encumbrance of a sentence, Rusty Miller can probably arrange a match with Shelton or Walla Walla.

with Shelton or Walla Walla.

The Northwest Collegiate League, active in 1965-66, may soon be revived. To become a ICLA-USCF affiliate, send $10 to: Joseph Sprince, 40 Orchard Rd., Brookline, MA 02146.

If you can arrange an instructor and guarantee an enrollment minimum, the college might offer a chess course for credit.

Patronize nearby tournaments, and hold a Northwest-rated event at least annually. Send announcements to NWC 3 mos. in advance.

PUBLICITY

The campus newspaper will print notices of club meetings and special events, as will NWC. Local newspapers and radio stations will generally publicize exhibitions and rated tournaments. Submissions should be typed and kept concise.

The student government's Xerox or ditto machines can be used to produce posters. Some schools have production labs with diazo, silk-screen, or multilith equipment available for student use.

A monthly newsletter, with ratings, club news, and annotated games, can be dittoed and mailed to members for less than 10¢ a copy.

EXHIBITIONS

A simultaneous exhibition is one of the best ways to attract new members and publicize the club. The student government will sponsor the appearance of a Northwest master, or if you're particularly persuasive, a player of national prominence. Even a strong local player can do a impressive exhibition.

Arrange an open, well-traveled area in the union building through the scheduling officer. Play should start on time; have the boards set up, and place dittoed handouts about the club around the site.

DAVE COLLYER LOOKING FOR A CHEAPO IN 22-BOARD SIMUL AT CENTRAL WASH. STATE COLLEGE

FUNDING

Student governments are well funded; and properly approached, anxious to dispense monies to deserving clubs. They can't make outright grants, but they can buy equipment, sponsor exhibitions, and pay limited travel allowances. Have your budget request placed on the agenda the week preceding the meeting of the student legislature. Plan the request carefully, and ditto a handout outlining and justifying each item. Come prepared to make a short talk and answer questions. Curry the favor of the president and executive VP(teach them to play chess or something). They have liberal budgets of their own for speakers, travel, and so forth.

Films can make a strong return for a small investment. Two showings of 1984 netted us $275 in one evening.

There is a good deal of popular interest in chess just now, but don't expect a packed house at every club meeting. There will be an active core of members, but care should be taken to interest the novice players. Activ-ities should have broad general appeal.

THE STUDY BUG

Have you been bitten by the study bug? have, and maybe all it takes is a study like the following for him to get you too.

> G. Nadareishvili Honorable Mention Szachy, 1970

White to move and draw

The composer is from Georgia in the USSR. He was recently awarded the title "International Master of the F.I.D.E. for Chess Compositions". It may be some time before he gets the newly-created Grandmaster title, because the requirements appear to be extremely stringent.

If you're new to studies I suggest the following approach:

1. Attempt to solve it from the diagram. Just imagine that you are White and Fischer is Black and you're playing for a $250,000 purse.

2. Set it up on the board and start moving the pieces around.

No. 1

- 3. Dust off your endgame books and other material and see if you can find anything that looks like it might apply to this study. The key to solving many studies lies in knowing what theoretically drawn (or won) position the study is heading for. Many of the class-ic studies were composed by retrograde analysis, that is, the author took the final posi-tion and worked backwards!
- 4. Look at the hint provided. There are intrinsic hints in all modern studies in the form of the number and positions of the chess-men. The "trinciple of economy" demands that every piece and rawn be "doing" something, but not necessarily in the main line of the study. In Nadareishvili's study it isn't too hard to determine what all the men are "doing" because almost everything moves in the main line of the study.
- 5. After you have made on honest attempt to see what the study is about, and you're still stumped, uncover the solution, one move at a time, repeating sters 1 - 4 as you do. STOP! Now solve the study and NO PEEKING!

HINT: White can't stop the black pawn from queening so he has to obtain a drawn Q v. P endgame. Take out your endgame manual and find out what the drawn Q v. 2P on the 7th positions are. Note that one move either way makes all the difference, so queening with or without check is important.

HOLD IT! I see your eyes snaking down toward the solution! Take another whack at it before you give up.

NORTHWEST CHESS VIEWS Robert A. Karch

Organized chess in the Northwest is steadily making the transition to professional status. It is no longer possible for the part-time promoter to hold a regular job and still have sufficient energy and time to properly administer the chessic affairs of nearly 2,000 active chessplayers (the present count in my rapidly expanding card file). If that total would somehow remain unchanged, the amateur might barely manage it. But chessplayers these days have a way of multiplying themselves, so that the individual player of the fifties and sixties has been replaced (if you can put it that way!) by brothers and sisters. boy-and-girlfriend, husbands and wives, fathers and sons, etc. - - many, many more chessplayers than

A skeptic asked me how big did I think we should grow? My answer is that even though competitive chess will always be a minority activity, still I feel one percent of the population would be a reasonable goal, or perhaps even half of that. With Washington state at roughly 32 million, Oregon 2 million and British Columbia 12 million, .5% of 7 million is 35,000. A conservative figure, in my opinion. Which is one reason I am in full-time chess.

Of course, figures and analysis alone won't pro-duce growth. It takes good record-keeping (administration) and an active program. At the moment, I have teamed up with Russell W. Miller and we are concentrating on a series of guaranteed-prize tournaments. Additionally, Rusty is managing the nationwide tour for Jude F. Acers while I am developing the chess teaching program.

As you know, compromise is inevitable in the pursuit of life's various goals. Several master players have pointed out to me that the prizes for the top players seem to be going down while those for the lower rated are increasing. My answer is that it is necessary to devise a formula that will attract a sufficient number to pay all bills and the prizes and that the old formula was not effective in this respect. Also, while I do favor special, high-prize tournaments for the chessworld elite, it is first necessary to generate the funds. Secondly, and simultaneously, we need the larger player turnouts to attract even a smidgeon of business support, otherwise our offer to exchange "goodwill and publicity" has no meaning.

One of our first steps in the direction of developing large tournaments is the week-long Independence Congress next July. Full details to include entry forms will be mailed to each Northwest chessplayer in February or March. I estimate 250 will participate in the event, one way or the other.

First interstate h. s. chess team match in Wash. was played Nov. 25 when Gonzaga Prep, Spokane, edged Orofino H. S., Idaho, 4½-3½. Gonzaga Advisor Stephen Christopher WSU '33 got a Pullman room 80 miles from each school. Four of the eight players have WCF ratings.

The match was a warm-up for Spokane's Metro League which started Dec. 1 with Gonzaga, Ferris, Lewis and Clark, North Central, Shadle Fark, Mead, and St. George's high schools playing a single round robin to decide two state tournament qualifiers.

This month I introduce my good friend Colin Aykroyd, a stalwart of northwest chess for many years. IN MEMORIAM: KENNETH HARKNESS, 1898-1972
By MARTIN E. MORRISON, USCF NATIONAL SECRETARY

The world of chess has lost a good friend and devoted worker. On October 4, in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Kenneth Harkness marked the last measure of a life dedicated in large part to the royal game he loved and worked to promote.

At this year's US Open at Atlantic City, just last August, he had spoken expectantly of a much deserved vacation in Scotland. From there he would go to Skopje, Yugoslavia, site of the XXth Chess Olympiad. He was on official business, though. As the United States representative on the Permanent Commission of the FIDE (World Chess Federation) for the Laws of the Game, he would attend the Commission's October meeting. Such, however, was not to be.

Kenneth Harkness's career in chess was marked from its earliest days with great distinction. Formerly Managing Editor of Chess Review, he went on to serve the United States Chess Federation as Membership Secretary and Business Manager during one of the Federation's early periods of increased growth. An Introduction to Chess, his introductory book on chess, co-authored with Irving Chernev in 1946, is still a best-seller, with well over 100,000 copies in print. In 1950 the Harkness Rating System was accepted as the first official rating system of the United States Chess Federation.

It soon became apparent that Kenneth Harkness has a special gift in an area of chess wherein few had the skill to tread. In 1953 a committee was formed to draw up the first set of USCF Tournament Rules and was immed iately confounded by the resignation of the Chairman and the inability of the committee members to devote the time and energy required to perform the task. Kenneth Harkness stepped into that breach as Acting Chairman-and began his rise to the position of a world-renowned rules authority. In 1956 the rules were published as part of his Official Blue Book and Encyclopedia of Chess which immediately became the organizational "bible" of the English-speaking chess world. The year 1967 saw the publication of his Official Chess Handbook, successor to and complete revision of the Blue Book. To this day the Handbook stands alone, unmatched in the field of chess organization; it will not likely be replaced.
In response to the increasing sophistication of chess players Kenneth Harkness produced his final work, the Offical Chess Rulebook (1970). At his death he had almost completed work on a revision of this book, to be published in 1973.

Gradually the world chess community began to recognize this American's gift. In 1970 he was elected to the World Chess Federation's prestigious Rules Commission, and from this position he proceeded to make long needed and sweeping improvements in the international chess laws. Still an active and vigorous worker in the United States, he prepared the draft of a totally revised set of USCF Tournament Rules, which was adopted in August 1972. Such was a fitting conclusion to the work of a man whose career in chess rules began with his draft of USCF's first set of tournament rules.

I had the great privilege and honor of working closaly with Kenneth Harkness in recent years. One might expect that such an unrivaled authority in his field would become intolerant of criticism. This opposite was certainly true of this man. He became, rather, more and more careful in his work and welcomed suggestions with a truly humble spirit, although he could fight vigorously for improvements he felt were necessary for the betterment of chess. Surely, his life and work will be an example to all dedicated workers for chess.

Condolences may be sent to Mrs. Harkness, 875 East Camino Real, Apt. 7G, Boca Raton, FL 33432.

KENNETH HARKNESS IN DEFENSE OF ALGEBRAIC NOTATION

(At this time it seems particularly appropriate to quote Kenneth Harkness's last formal speech, delivered from the floor of the USCF's Annual Membership Meeting. August 21, 1972. The speech demonstrates vividly that even at the age of 74 Mr. Harkness maintained a forward-looking spproach to the problems of chess in the 70's.)

"I would like to comment on this subject of algebraic notation. I don't believe that this is a subject on which you should send out a questionaire and ask the members what they want. Obviously they want descriptive notation; this is a foregone conclusion.

"Recently, for instance, Great Britain changed from "Recently, for instance, Great Britain changed from pounds, shillings, and pence to a metric system of monetary. Now if the people of Great Britain had been surveyed ahead of time and asked, "Do you want to change over to a metric monetary system?," the answer would have been an overwhelming "NO!" Now the leaders of Great Britain decided that it would be much better to have a system of money which was not this old-fashioned method--one pound was twenty shillings, and a shilling was twelve pence--involving the most complicated calculations on money, whereas the rest of the world was on a metric system. So they decided to educate the people of Great Britain, and over a period of one year--or more--I've forgotten what, they finally got the people to understand what it was all about, that it was much better to have a metric system of money. And they changed the people who had been using this old-fashioned method for hundreds of years; they got them to change to a metric system.

"Now the same thing happened to Sweden. In Sweden they had been driving on the left-hand side of the road for hundreds of years. It took them a year or more to educated the people of Sweden to the fact that it would be better to drive on the right-hand side of the road. The day arrived, and one day they changed over from the left-hand side of the road to the right-hand side of the road. Was there confusion and chaos? No, there was not. There was not. Everything went smoothly and well.

"Now I maintain that the United States Chess Federation should educate the members of the Federation to the advantages of algebraic notation. I don't say that we should do this overnight, but I think that over a period of one year the Federation should gradually educate the members to the advantages of algebraic notation, and one day it will be absolutely necessary for everybody to write algebraic notation. Therefore, I think Chess Life & Review should gradually educate the members to the use of algebraic notation."

(The speech received a round of applause, as few others did, and, I believe, was instrumental in persuading the USCF directors to approve a pro-algebraic resolution at a later meeting. That resolution, introduced by me with several directors as co-sponsors, was the first such resolution ever to be passed by USCF directors and mandates the USCF to begin an algebraic education program beginning January 1973. UNDERSTANDING CHESS LAWS AND TOURNAMENT DIRECTION By MARTIN E. MORRISON

Stunned by the sudden death of the USA representative, Kenneth Harkness, whom it called "a very esteemed and active member," the Permanent Commission of the FIDE (World Chess Federation) for the Laws of the Game entertained a far less ambitious agenda this year than in 1971. Mr. Harkness had been elected to the Commission in 1970 and immediately proceeded to undertake long needed revision of major FIDE Laws during the Commission's 1971 session. This year too he had worked diligently on several additional proposals of importance to present to the Commission, but was not to be given the opportunity: sic Volvere Parcas, thus the Fates decreed.

The Commission at its October 5 session, held at Skopje, Yugoslavia, site of the 1972 (XXth) Chess Olympiad, did adopt Swiss System regulations and three interpretations of the Laws of Chess.

1. Regulations for the Application of the Swiss System. At the 1971 FIDE Congress Mr. Harkness, along with Phil G. Haley, President of the Chess Federation of Canada, and George H. Simmons, Secretary of the British Chess Federation, was appointed to a subcommission to draft a set of Swiss System rules for FIDE--An historic first for the world organization, where the Swiss System is only now coming into proper recognition. According to Mr. Harkness the rules were basically a modified version of current USCF Swiss System rules.

2. Interpretation: The Hand that Punches the Clock. The Cuban Chess Federation had asked: "Concerning Article 13.2 of the rules (score keeping), is a player having extreme time-trouble obliged (yes or no) to punch his clock with the same hand with which he keeps score? ANSWER: The Laws of Chess make no such requirement, whether or not the player is in time-trouble. Nor is there any law that required a player to punch his clock with the hand he uses to make moves on the board." Of course, a player must have completed his move under the Laws (Articles 7, 14.4) before he may stop his clock—with whichever hand he chooses.

3. Interpretation: Illness During a Game. The Cuban Chess Federation had also asked: "With regard to Article 14.6. . . is . . . the sudden illness of a player during the course of a game or -- in the same sense -- the sudden death of a close relative . . considered to be covered by the Aritcle just mentioned? ANSWER: With regard to Article 16.4: If the sudden illness during the course of a game is deemed to be of short duration, then the answer is YES. But if it is not regarded as likely to be brief, the answer is NO, and--also as in the case of the sudden decease of a close relative -- the matter must be left to the discretion of the arbiter."

4. Interpretation: Proof of Touch-Move Violation Required. As a result of last year's major revision of the touch-move rule Mr. Harkness received a number of requests for clarification of the new Laws involved, (Articles8, 20). The Commission adopted as an official interpretation one of these important clarifications presented by Mr. Harkness.

"In a recent game the player with the white pieces claimed that his opponent violated Article 20.1a by touching a man, then moving a different one. Black denied the accusation, and a Director was called to the board. There was no independent witness of any kind to the alleged violation, so the Director rejected the claim for lack of evidence.

"White then claimed that the situation is covered by the last paragraph of Article 20.1, in which it is stated that '. . . if it cannot be determined which movable or capturable man was touched first, the opponent shall specify which touched man must be moved or captured, as the case may be.' The Director summarily rejected this claim.

"ANSWER: The Director was correct in both instances. As in the case of all other laws, unbiased evidence is required to support any claim by a player that his opponent broke the law. If the accused player denies the allegation, and it is impossible to prove otherwise by the testimony of an official or other disinterested witness, it is just a question of one player's word against that of his opponent. An unsubstantiated claim would have to be rejected.

"The second claim is frivolous. The quoted words from the last paragraph of Article 20.1 refer only to a situation in which there is evidence to support a claim that two or more men were touched, but it is impossible to determine which was touched first."

Tournament Directors and players should study this interpretation carefully, since some hold the unfounded opinion that any touch-move claim must be automatically upheld and that the claimant may specify the man to be moved by his opponent. The interpretation clarifies onceand for all that "as in the case of all other laws, unbiases evidence is required to support any claim by a player that his opponent broke the law."

The bulk of Mr. Harkness's proposals, together with suggestions for preventing "pre-arranged draws and/or punishing the perpetrators of such draws," will be considered by the Commission in a special meeting in May 1973 at the Hague, Netherlands.

For the first time in ten years the United States has qualified prominent national tournament directors to the position of International Arbiter of FIDE. This titla, scarcer even than the International Grandmaster title in this country, pertains "to chess competitions of practiced playing" and is awarded only to those candidates who "a) know exactly the playing rules of FIDE and all other regimentations of FIDE to be observed in chess competitions; b) have proved, in activity as arbiter, at all times an absolute objectivity; c) possess a sufficient knowledge of at least two languages officially acknowledged by FIDE; d) have acquired experience by working as chief arbiter during at least four important chess competitions."

New International Arbiters of FIDE are Frank J. Skoff, Martin E. Morrison, Kenneth Harkness, Frank Brady, and Maj. John A. Hudson. Those who already held the tile were Israel A. Horowitz, Isaac I. Kashdan, Hans Kmoch, George Koltanowski, and Edward Lasker.

Botvinnik was one of the greatest players of all time, ranking below Lasker, Alekhin and Capablanca, This book includes his World Championship period, 1948-1963, and his games range from his superbly accurate, forceful style of 1947-1948, to his slow positional atyle of 1966-1970.

Some of the games given are not really worthy of publication. Cafferty is lacking in ability to discriminate between good and bad games. E.g. a game Botvinnik-Smyslov started: 1 PQB4 NKB3 2 NQB3 PK4 3 PKN3 BN5 4 BN2 00 5 PQR3 BxN 6 NPxB PK5 7 RK1 PB3?? 8 PK6!! and White is forced to play 11 PQ3, with a wretched position. This game is not typical of Botvinnik's style and is not one of his 'best' games, it is one of his worst.

Botvinnik wins every game in this book, which is absurd. It is well known that many of his drawn games are far superior to 25% of the games which Cafferty publishes.

The real value of this book is Botvinnik's notes, which accompany most of the games. Without them the book is almost worthless - with them it is a masterpiece. Botvinnik played almost consistently for the endgame that it is impossible to understand his strategy without his explanations.

The quality of his play is not equal to that of his earlier work "100 Selected Games", 1926-1946. He commits more mistakes, which makes good annotations more important.

Cafferty's translation is terrible. He doesn't understand correct grammar and proper sentence structure. At times it is impossible to comprehend what he writes. His own comments are usually ridiculous.

McKay still publishes great books, but they keep getting more shoddy. This book has very thin paper which makes it difficult to read because you can see the print on the other side. The binding is poor. The print is weak and hard to read. They used a thin style of type which doesn't carry much ink. It appears grey instead of black. This causes considerable eye-strain.

The indexes are not adequate. There is no index of opponents. They give Botvinnik's results but don't bother to add them.

This is a very poorly production of a great book. Order from Tru Test Co. Box 5268, Cleveland, Ohio. 44101

Robert Zuk started number 1 and finished number 1 in Open Section of Portland Falls Open. He seemed to have little trouble in dowing his five opponents. His prize was the combine for first overall and 1st 2200 rating and up. Dave White and Don Grisham shared 1st & 2nd prize in 2000-2199 rating group. John Pintar took 1st 1900 1999 prize while Phil Irwin and Alan Dvorshak split 2nd. Bill Heywood was lone 1800-1899 player after Bruce Betzer dropped out. Three way tie in 1700-1799 between Gary Ward Jeff Hanson and John McCall. Jack Pattie in 1600-1699 group scored full point more than 1700-1799 prize winners. 2nd in this group Gary Carnese scored 1/2 point more. Was able to hand George Capwell his prize for first in 1500-1599 group before his last game was finished. 2nd in this group was split between Bob Ankeney, Larry Burright Scott Hanson, and Kornelijs Dale.

Scott Hanson came up to the directors table in round 4 and was able to report, "Hanson won". But it turned out Scott Hanson had lost and Jeff Hanson won as they were playing each other.

The Reserve Section ended in victory for two unrated playere. John Wolf and Wayne Jackson split 1st overall and 1st & 2nd unrated prize. The 1400 - 1499 prize was split among David Wong, Albert Serna and Cinthia McBride. Darrell Engelhard took home 1300-1399 prize. Dan Rinkes and Carl Haessler parted with 1100-1299 one. Since turnout was not as big as I had hoped the prizes were reduced but with same idea in mind, prize for every 100 rating point group and same amount for each as near as possible.

Seattle's own Bob Ruotsalainen, 20, took home the First-Place trophy and half of first and second prize money when his better tiebreakers outpointed Alan Dvorshak, 20, of Portland. Both finished with 4 1/2 at the Oregon Junior Open, held in Portland Nov. 25 and 26, drawing only with each other. Dvorshak also earned himself the Class A trophy.

Terry Helling, 15, also of Portland, claimed third prize money, as well as being awarded the trophy for highest finisher Under 16. Fourth-finishing Gary Turner, 16, Salem, passed up his share of third for undisputed Under 1800 prize money and the Class B trophy. Both finished with 4-1 due to Helling's loss to Ruotsalainen and Turner's to Helling.

Biggest surprise of the tournament was Chris Tento, 17, Tigard, whose 1159 Northwest Rating and 3 1/2 score earned him Under 1600 prize money and the Class D trophy. His only loss was to Ruotsalainen, and he drew with Phil Irwin, 15, Beaverton. This young man is on his way up in a hurry.

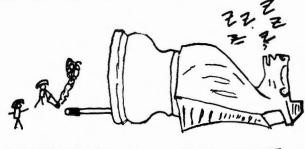

Not to be outdone by his older brother Gary, Mark Turner (15, Salem) earned the Class C trophy with a 3-2 result. Both boys are sons of Don Turner, who has two more sons also blazing "Turnerment" trails (groan).

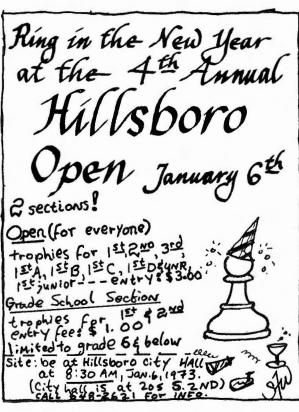

Gene Dannen, 18, Portland, claimed the Unrated trophy with 1 1/2 points, besting 15-year-old Jim Allen, Milwaukie, by half a tiebreaker for the prize.

Only 26 players, ranging in age from 10 to 20, participated in the tourney, which was considerably less than expected. Perhaps an overabundance of Thanksgiving turkey accounted for the absence of a number of Oregon's top juniors.

The event was sponsored and underwritten by the Oregon Chess Federation.

Oregon Washington 42 8

As reported last issue, the 1971 Match was won 12-10 by Washington. This match looks like the bad guys from the North are already out of it! With 9 games to go Oregon has a 4 point lead! And Washington got two of its points by forfeit!

1973 WASHINGTON-OREGON MATCH has received entries from Becker and Ballard of Oregon, and Norman Hanlen, J. and Raymond from Wash. If you are interested let me know, there is no fee to play, however, the games will be rated. I will match the players up as nearly as possible before sending out the assignments.
