is published monthly by the WASHINGTON CHESS FEDERATION a non-incorporated affiliate of the United States Chess Federation. By cooperative agreements with BRITISH COLUMBIA CHESS FEDERATION and the OREGON CHESS FEDERA-TION, these organizations recognize this magazine as their "official" publication and contribute information and material concerning chessic matters in their respective areas. However, while full voting membership in both the WCF and OCF includes a subscription to NWC, full membership in BCCF makes a subscription to NWC optional. Therefore, with respect to OCF and WCF, this magazine will continue to make available space for all official matters. With respect to BCCF and Idaho, all news and contributions are, of course, welcome, but at times when overall space becomes limited, then the pages for these areas will generally reflect the current level of subscriber interest.

DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION OF MATERIAL:

Third Wednesday of each month, for the issue dated the following month. For example, material for the November issue should be received by October 17. Keep copy 4 5/8" wide on flat white paper. We welcome chess related cartoons, anecdotes, short stories, annotated games, tournament results, chess history, club news, personality sketches, etc.

The opinions expressed in NORTHWEST CHESS are those of the Editor or of the contributors. They do not necessarily constitute an official policy of WCF or OGF or BCCF. ANNUAL MEETING

Washington Chess Federation annual meeting will be Saturday evening August 31,1974 at Southend Chess Room during WCF Open.
Election of Officers will be main order of business.

Need to elect a President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Editor of Northwest Chess and WCF Tournament Director. Steve Thomas will not run again for Treasurer and Bruce Bailey probably will not stand for re-election as President. I don't know what I want to do about Editor post. Anyone out there want to be Editor of NWC who lives in Washington or Oregon? I am not clear If BC residents can be Editor. Guess WCF officers will have to work that out. Editor post pays $35.00 per month but is quite a bit of work also.

If you wish to run for one of the above posts how about letting us know.

If there is a matter which you wish to bring before the group at annual meeting remember that WCF votes on things by mail ballot. Only thing decided at meeting is if something should not go on the ballot to be voted upon. You can get something on the ballot by having 15 WCF members sign the measure. Only WCF members that get NWC can vote.

Also we must elect USCF directors unless USCF changes the rules on this. There has been some thought given to having the USCF members in a state elect the directors.

More on the meeting in August issue.

SEMI-ANNUAL LIST

EVENTS RATED JULY 1974

Second Yakima Valley College Open (2 sections), Spokane Woodpushers, Boeing Spring Swiss, Croisier 3 - Edwards 3, Metropolitan Life Ladder Launcher, A Seattle Junior High Tournament otherwise unidentified, Torkar 5 1/2 Rich Hanlen 2 1/2, Bremerton Spring Open, Croisier 3 - Gunderson 3, Puget Sound Open and High School Section, Idaho Open, ACS Monday Night Swiss, Lilac City Open, unidentified Central Washington event (2 sections), Ephrata Chess Club Championship and Reserves, Oregon Youth Individual Chess Championship, Clark County Open, Second Kingsgate Knights Open, Campau 3 -Mulford 3, Medford Chess for Fun, Portland Open (sections A, B, C, D and Unrated), unidentified Seattle Chess Event, Tangborn 2 - Collyer 2, Whitt 4 - Christie 1, Southend Tornadoes 1 and 2. * Southend Grand Open

The lists contain all players active so far in 1974.

The Idaho-Open was rated this time as an experiment. It presented an interesting problem in that the only ratings I had for most of the players were the USCF ones given on the tournament report. At one time Northwest ratings included Idaho, so searching the back files I was able to find old Northwest ratings for some 15 of the players. I took the differences between these ratings and their USCF ratings and came up with an average difference of 73 points - that is, their NNRs averaged out to be 73 points higher than their USCFRs. Therefore to approximate NWRs for the remainder I wided 73 to their USCF pre-tournament ratings and used that number. NWrated players had their iw ratings used directly. In any case that's the way it was done, so any of you Idahoans, Utahans or Nevadans who are curious about where your rating number came from now you know. Seemed most fair since Rd ratings are a bit higher than USCF ratings on the average. Incidentally I hope you like the looks of this computerized rating service we have here; it works fine. Events that reach me before the third Monday of each month are rated in the next month's magazine; we never have a USCFstyle hiatus of months before events get rated unless the organizers just don't get the reports in any faster.

I ruling on matchs: In the case of playoff matchs held to determine the winner of a previous event and under the auspices of that event, the rule that there must be at least 4 games is waived. All other matchs must have at least 4 games to be ratable. This situation arose in a Spokane playoff match: only three playoff games were played. I rated that match (several months ago) and one of the players protested because there were not enough games. I upheld the protest and restored the points he lost but in future such playoff matchs will be rated even if they are short. They will be considered part of the event rather than an independent event.

JUUE VOUS AUX des ECHECS?

As we sit ourselves down to a game of chess, we hope strategic and tactical gods us will bless! Very serious faced we think and plan, fidgeting, fretting, going through torment, wondering what attacks and finesses we can foment!

Black and White pieces leap into our brains and eyes, as we sit shrewdly conjuring cogent replies. Chess, a fight, a war! Grappling, struggling, the contest is joined.

What brilliance and force can be coined?! Does Chess require brains, or merely a broad behind. as we sit there sweating the moves to find? You've got a "won game". Then what do you do? Get over confident, lose and wonder where the win flew? Chess, miniature life on 64 squares. Lions and tigers. out of their lairs.

Chess by the fireplace, with coffee and pie. Some feel if you win, you live, if you lose, you die.

Agitation, worry, and a pounding heart. Those elements seem in chess to play a part.

Ambivalence! Chess, serious, chess for fun! It is hard to choose which one! NWC JULY PAGE 208

When they lose they seem domncast and cross. But watch the winners strut like peacocks and rooster. They walk on air, a real chess booster. If you lose do you jump off the bridge? If you win, do you keep striding the victors ridge? Begin the clock ticking, give it a punch. Few moves by both sides, and the pieces are in a bunch. Analysis may cut through the smog, and the fog. An oversight, or a blunder, makes one feel like a dog. Whence comes irreststable attraction of chess? Tactical and strategic gods do not always us bless! India opened Pandora's box when she invented the game. It is played by mean ones, it is played by tame. Chess, sadly, can be boring, or dry. Then again, brilliance and originality can fly. Complications, excitement can populate the board. Each antagonist seems to have a win. A few moves more, and a tension thaw. Doggone, the game winds up a draw. There's the "natural player" and the "study bug". Many dismiss chess as a waste of time with a shrug. In a game, you won mainly because of a pin. The other guy says to you "you're better than I, Cunga Din".

SOLVERS FOR MAY: Russ Ridderbusch 32 (Warch 36), R.G.Neve 32, Barry Nalepa 32, Robert Pinkerton 32, J.L.Sheets 32, James Kubicek 32 (April 34, Bill Newell 32, Jon Berry 27 (April 29), David Klinetobe 27, Ben Jarrell 26, Steve Rowles 24, Kathryn Resing 22. Max. was 32.

SOLUTIONS FOR MAY: No.125 (HcWILLIAM) 1.Bg2 (2.Qe8) 1...Pxb2, 2.Rd2 along with five other line openings by black. Compare with Resing's No.134 in the June issue, which is lighter and opens lines for white. Here, only 1...gB- and 1...Pf5 open such lines. No.126 (IARYSKO) 1.Qd3 (2.Bb3) Three good variations follow the rather quiet key. A serious weakness is the initially unprovided flight 1...Ke6. No.127 (KUBICEK) 1.Rc8 (2.Sxe5) Kost thought the key was easy and somewhat brutal. Generally, composers will use a battery forming key only when nothing else can be worked in; but this type of key here is good since it allows two BK flights which in turn give checks and which are defeated by cross-check pln-mates. Most tries (1.Pa6? or 1.Bb??) are met by 1...Pc2! 128 (HOLLADMY) 1.Pd4 (2.Pd5) The brave little pawn runs the gantlet. Again there are several line openings as in No.134, which both show the same theme. It is interesting that the white pieces sit around the edges as spectators as the rewn sacrifices itself to four BP.s.

2.Kf3 Kf5, 3.Be2 Sh4≠. 1.Bh5 Sc6, 2.Kd3 Kd5,

3.Be2 Sb4≠. All Ideal mates. This proved to be the most difficult with a few solvers thinking the stipulation should read H≠4! Clever use of symmetry (2 lines) and asymmetry (1 line).

No.132 (MARYSKO) 1.Bh4 (2.Qd4+ Rxd4≠) Some excellent unpins of the WQ: 1...Bd3, 2.Qe4+ and

1...Sd3, 2.Qe5+; and two other nice battery lines:

1...Sd5, 2.Rf6+ and 1...Pxd5, 2.Re4+. Beginners should study the construction of this problem.

SOLVING CONTEST #2

The 2nd half of the 1974 Solving Contest begins with this issue. Although several readers have commented that they are able to solve only a few problems, and others that they simply do not have the time each month, it is urged that you nonetheless send in whatever solutions you can. Winning these contests provides good competition, but it is more important to show your support for this column! While many readers are, of course, interested in the column and in the challenge of problem solving, they do not send in solutions because perhaps of a poor showing. It is therefore hoped that everyone who infers things from the contests' results will realize that scores indicate support rather than ability.

This year's Second Contest begins by featuring Problems composed by one of America's finest composers. Nos.141-148 are all the work of Otto Wurzburg. Selected on the basis of high quality and difficulty of solution, these eight will be included in a book of 200 of Wurzburg's Problems, presently being produced by Edgar Holladay and scheduled for release in late July. This is an excellent collection for solvers, new or old, to get their teeth into.

No. 141 has what can be termed a "perfect key". And No. 147 has some good tries. The maximum point total this month is 32.

CHESS PUZZLES

by D.L. Brown

Since mediant limes the face of chess has undergone many limes. Called a game, an art, science or mathematics, there has always been a natural army of instigators who analyze all the deviations ever invented.

Capablanca and other great players, for instance, experimented with larger size boards (10x10). Plane boards have been extended to almost every conceivable length. There are also all kinds of cylindrical boards, as well as three and four dimensional boards. Imagine playing on a board with the dimension of time!

Small and irregular boards can be used for neat little puzzles, much like the kind in commercial use.

T.R.Dawson, "Bolton Football Field", 1911 Dawson was, incidentally, the composer of some 6000 problems and puzzles.

The solution: the Black King oscillates while White moves 1-21: SRSRB, RSRSB, SRSeRK, SKRKS, then, RxB# (S stands for Knight).

Another of this type requires the King to move to al without entering b2. Pawns cannot move. How many Answer: 26 by playing the following pieces in order, BQKB, RQBK, BKBQ, KBRQ, RBRB, REKB, QK. This puzzle was published anonymously in "Chess Pie" 1922.

Since 500 A.D., the probable origin of chess, only the Rook and Knight have survived, and checkmate is still the same. Of course, hundreds of other pieces and their variants have been invented. But while almost all of these fall into the category of Fairy Chess, there are some which are more entertaining than useful!

Like, the Atomic Bomb, which, after promotion, leaps to any desired square, explodes and destroys every piece within (n) squares. Or, the Transparent Men, through which other pieces may pass. Or, the Zero, which simply leaps straight up and then down onto the same square, counting as one move!

Try playing Prohibition Chess, which is 120 years old: neither side may give check unless to mate. Or, no-Capture Chess, in which neither side may capture unless to prevent mate. Or, there's Must-Check, and Must-Capture. Also, Give-Away, Scotch Chess and the familiar Kriegspiel.

The pseudo-problems, usually employ one of the "odd-moves": cast-ling, en passant or promotion. Such is the case in this Retractor. In these, White is allowed to take-back ANY move and then play as directed.

By D.L. Brown, "Die Schwalbe" 1972.

-White Retracts a Move, then mates in 2.

The solutions involves three under-promotions:
Retract Pa?xBb8=S, then, 1.Pa8=R Kb?, 2.Sxe?≠
The "left" piece on b8 must be a Blk. B to allow mate, and it's also a promoted piece.

Mathematicians have had fun in almost all areas of chess possibilities. They've found that all the usual 32 men may stand in 7,534,686, 312,361,225,327 x 10³³ different positions!

According to James Mason In his "Principles of Chess", there are approximately 169,518,829, 100.544,000,000,000,000,000 ways of playing the first ten moves for both sides!

Ever wonder what could be the longest possible game? Investigation by Drs. Fabel, Hoeg and Sunyer shows a figure of 5,899 with the last move being Kg2xRh1 (by white). But since this is a capture, the two kings can make 50 more moves under the 50-move rule, making 5949. It is not stated, however, if this figure represents the repetition of all positions (at least twice before the three-fold repetition draw would be in effect).

Sam Loyd was the Father of American Problems, but he was also widely known as the Puzzle King. He invented many games, mathematical problems and advertizing gimicks. Thus, he sometimes bridged chess and these other tricks.

He posed the unusual question: how can a king stand mated with only two Rooks and a Knight in the center of the board?

On the right is the answer. Mated, yes; but illegal!

On the left is a position by H.H.Cross, 1960. It asks: is the position legal? What was the last move?

The position can indeed be arrived at legally by following backward these moves: Pxc6 e.p., Pc7-c5, Pb4-b5+.

İ

Another unusual setting (on the left) could be labeled "for the composer". It's incomplete and the would-be composer is asked to Add-a-White Pawn so White can mate in two.

The WP must be added to a2. and play proceeds 1.Pa4 Pxa3 e.p., 2.Bxb6≠ by Dr. Karl Fabel, 1946.

Another amusing idea comes from Loyd, this, a version after him. He loved to accompany such puzzles with stories. Here, it involved a visit to Blackwell's Island, a home for lunatics. As chess was involved, an inmate approached Loyd and showed him the position above on the right. "Mate in Half a Move". Sam exclaimed there is no such a thing and offered a wager. He promptly paid, however, as the lunatic completed the move of Castling!

A famous legend about the so-called inventor of Chess, Sassa, tells us that his King offered ANY reward to him for his fabulous new war game. Sassa requested corn! One grain on one square, two on the second, four on the third, and doubling so on up to the sixty-fourth square. Since the number requested would be enough grains to cover the whole of England to a depth of 38.4 feet, he was instead beheaded!

A curious discovery was made by C.F. de Jaenisch, showing a near Magic Khights' Tour. In the simple Knights' Tour, a S moves to every square on the board only once. But in the Magic Tour, with each square being numbered on the move, the numbers in each row and column and long diagonal will add up to the same sum, in this case 260. The exception here is the diagonals which are 256 and 264. A perfect Magic Knights

In 1906 there was a puzzle published by L.A. Munck in "Skakbladet" to which it showed a diagram with absolutely no pieces on it! It stated that while White was in the process of moving, Black angrily snatched his king from the board; but regretting this, he replaced his king and agreed to move as white wished. was then able to mate in two!

Before reading on to the solution, try to imagine what's involved here and how such a seemingly factless situation can be solved.

Well, obviously very few pieces can be around, minus the lone black king of course, But, remember one of the common tricks? Sur When many people Castle, they do it two-handed! Thus, with the White King & Rook off the board, the diagram was blank. White finished castling Q-side and black replaced his king on b3. Then, moving as white wished, to a2, there followed, 1.Rd3 Ka1, 2.Ra3≠

A puzzle which Sam Loyd dubbed "Crossing the Danube" asks to Change the Knights from the King's side to the Qside of the board, without moving backwards or ever getting two knights on the same file.

Solution: Regardless of color, play to the vacant file FROM the files as given: f,d,c,e,g,h,f,d,b,a, c,e,g,f,d,b,c,e,d.

If you'd like to see if you can guard all 64 squares with only 3 queens and two rooks, read no further! It's not all that easy, but a Dr. Planck found a way: Q's on b3, b7&h5 And R's on d1&f5.

W.C.Fields once starred in a movie "Never Give A Sucker An Even Break". It reminds this writer of a night long ago at the local club. An expert sat frozen over a position, patiently attracting attention. Later it was learned that the position was actually one of those inhumanly complex endgames from Russia.

The suckers slowly gathered around and soon began exchanging their impecable decisions regarding the outcome. Then, if annoyed by it all, the expert said, "I bet anyone a dollar I can win this...with either White or Black!" Surely, White had a won game...or maybe a draw, and black sure has some great winning chances!?!? Anyway, someone took him on - and lost. And, another who saw some corrections sat down and lost. $11 later the night ended and a small group of fish vowed they'd get even somehow.

A few years ago, this position appeared on a board in the same club. One lonely guy sat stuck in deep concentration. "Gee", he said, "I can't figure out how I lost", in a sad tone. Do-gooders took a look, and one exclaimed, "How did you ever get in a mess like that?" Another said quickly, "You must have been stalemated and didn't know it". "Oh, I assure you", said the lonely chap, "it was all quite legal. I'll show you the whole game from my score sheet, and I'll bet you a buck nothing was wrong".

The fact was that white just played 55.R(g?) xB(h?)≠ The R(g?) could not have taken R or S at h? as this would give black no previous move, nor a Q at h? as blacks last move (from g8) would have been an illegal check! -The setting was by W. Cross in 1967-.
(Yours truly won or lost no money, but did contribute to the delinquency of a fish!)

If one wishes to comprehend a really huge number, it's probably best to break it down into smaller numbers. Take the case of the maximum number of possible games of chess:

Take all the stars in the Milky Way (roughly a million million) and populate each with the same number of people as on earth (about 21) billion), then have each pair of people play a different game at the rate of one per minute, and it'll take 40 billion years to play all the possible games! Below is another Retractor by Loyd from "Chess Monthly" 1860.

White just played a bad move and will be mated. Therefore, retract this move (ANY), and then mate black in one!

A story, "Chess Life in a Harem", accompanied this. Prince Ali, a student of Sassa, was playing an Eunuch, as were his two brothers. One, reaching the sim-ilar situation, overturned the board and went crying to his mother's arms. Ali.

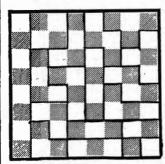

who likewise was refused a retraction, was ordered from the room. The other grabbed old Sassa'a beard and tore it off! If Ali was free to violate the rule, he would not have taken en passant from e5, and instead played Qc3 A very famous "dream" game from Sam Loyd and His Chess Problems (which is filled with many such works), with humorous analysis and a story, shows the shortest possible game in which stalemate can occur without captures. Incredibly,

Sam shows it can be done in 12 moves!!!

1.Pd4 Pd6, 2.Qd2 Pe5, 3.Pa4 Pe4, 4.Qf4 Pf5,
5.Ph3 Be7, 6.Qh2 Be6, 7.Ra3 Pc5, 8.Rg3 Qa4+,
9.Sd2 Bh4, 10.Pf3 Bb3, 11.Pd5 Pe3, 12.Pc4 Pf4= Of course, everyone knows it can be done in FBN with captures! 1.Pe3! Pa5, 2.Qh5 Ra6, 3.Qxa5 Ph5, 4.Qxc7 aRh6, 5.Ph4 Pf6, 6.Qxd7 Kf7, 7.Qxb7 Qd3, 8.Qxb8 Qh7, 9.Qxc8 Kg6, 10.Qe6 stalemate!

Loyd also took a shot at cutting up the chess board into unusual ways: into how many pieces can a chessboard be divided, on the lines, so that every piece will be different in shape or color? The eighteen different possibilities are shown in this diagram.

This was published in "Sam Loyd's Puzzle Magazine" in 1908.

Although Loyd produced many varieties of puzzles like this. there are many hundreds more in existence in the chess world.

Such things offer players an entertaining vacation from the laborous studying of openings and other dedicated pursuits of the game.

Hopefully, you will have gained a slightly better appreciation for the World of Chess. Needless to say, this writer recommends the Problem World as well. There, the prettiest moves and the full strategic elements are displayed in their best artistic fashion.

For, in all its different faces, "Chess, Tike love, like music, has the power to make men (and women) happy" - Tarrasch.

FITIGERAND and MICHE reign

The University of Oregon Open, held April 27-28, in Eugene at the ever-popular Eugene Hotel, drew 72 players, competing in 2 sections for $75 in prizes. Both events were NW-rated and the Open was USCF-rated. NW ratings were used for pairings and prizes, which caused the highest-rated USCF player to be placed third in the crosstable However, he (Ken Fitzgerald) ended up on top, conceding a last round draw to D. Leo Stufurak. Yasser was there, but he came unglued against Fitzgerald's exchange sacrifice in a Najdorf Sicilian from round 4. The 12 year old chess star ended up with 4 points, sharing 3rd place with D. Leo Stufurak, Joe Brandenburg, and Bill Heywood. Roger Bricher upset Jeff Kurtz in the last round for the 1st 'A', a fine effort. Gary Ward came out of the doldrums to win top 'B', Bill Hardy was 2nd 'B', while Eric Anderson, Dennis Hill and Gary Pobanz split 2nd 'A'.

HOC OPENS

The House of Chess under the direction of Pat Maloney will begin again June 11th. The HOC will have a new home this time, Suite 320 Park Haviland Hotel, 731 SW Salmon in Downtown Portland. The HOC will be open Tuesday-Saturdays 5pm to lam. And remember "the House of Chess will last a 1000 years, or there abouts".

Jon Berry wins Portland Open

Amassing a total of 5 points Jon Berry went on to win the class ${}^{\dagger}A^{\dagger}$ and open section at the Portland Open held May 25th, 26th and Berry won the championship in the last round when second place finisher Yasser Seirawan drew his game with Eric Anderson, causing Yasser to lose the open by 1 point. Berry in round 5 defeated Anderson a 1934 rated player.

Marvin Ansted a 'D' player found himself throw into the class 'A' section due to a lack of top players showing up the tournament. Despite this he held his own, winning a total of 32 points and defeating Jon Mieke, Roger Martin, and drawing John Pintar.

Chess players have always been noted to be frugal with their money as well as being flat broke. This could account for the total silence that befell the registration hour as Don Turner slaped down a $100.00 bill for the entry fee. Despite chess players thrifty ways there were 95 entries to the Portland Open.

Next year the Portland Open will be renamed the Rose City Open.

Ben Kruger and Ben Thurston tied for first place in the class 'B' section each pocketing $87.50.

Roger Gregory a 1484 took $125,00 as he won the Class 'C'. Carl Haesslerwon the 'D' with a perfect 6-0 record, also taking home $125.00.

OPPPCC NEEDS OLD (NOT IN USE) CHESS TERM

The Oregon Penitentiary Passed Pawns Chess Club can use that old chess set you've forgotten about over the years. Greg Krimer and Karl Granat are trying to start some sort of fund to collect chess equipment for the club. Any donations of sets, clocks, or anything you can spare would be appriciated. Contact Greg Krimer , 1802 S.W. 10th -#437, Portland, OR 97201.

a)An interesting idea of Strautins. The move deflects the Bishop and provides breathing space for the King b)Probably best is 4. BxN. The point of 3...P-QN4 becomes clear after 4. BxP P-B3 5.B-N3 PxP 6.NxP Q-N4 7.P-Q4 QxP 8.Q-R5ch P-N3 9.B-B7ch K-Q1 10.BxP QxRch 11.K-K2 B-R3ch and wins

c)A blunder. Necessary is 6.P-Q4 QxP 7.Q-R5ch P-N3 8.B-B7ch K-Q1 9.BxP QxRch KwKZ 10.K-K2 although after 10...B-R3, Black is winning.

d)Inaccurate, as White can now play 8.P-Q4. Better was 7...P-Q4, which would transpose into the text.

e)See previous note. Development is more important here than the win of material.

f)Forced. The idea is that if 9...NxB then 10. Q-R5ch wins.

g)So that if 10. Q-K2, then 10...NxB h)ll...N-B3! wins outright.

i)The fish has taken the bait. After the simple 15.KxB K-B2!! 16.Q-B4oh!!, White has the edge.

j)Now the game should be a draw. As Black is threatening mate, White must take perpetual check with 17.QxRPch K-Q3 18.Q-R3ch moves 19.Q-K3 Q-N8!! and now 20.Q-B4ch draws.

OREGONIAN - OMSI

The Oregonian - OMSI School Championships are a series of tournaments held annually throughout Oregon. They begin with local tournaments held at each participating school, progress through seventeen regional tournament, and end with a state final in Portland. All told, about 15,000 students participated this year.

There are five classes of state final tournaments:
1. Elementary (grades K through 6), Individual

- play
 2. Intermediate (grades 7 thru 9), Individual
- play
 3. Upper (grades 10-12), Individual play
- 4. Elementary team play
- 5. Intermediate team play

The Oregonian provides the principal financial backing while the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry handles the organization, with technical assistance from the Oregon Chess Federation. Well over $1,000.00 in savings bonds and merchandise are awarded at the state finals, with a $100.00 bond first prize in each class.

1974 Oregonian - OMSI Intermediate Championship This year's Upper Division championship was shared three ways - Richard Wood. Jeff Wilson, and Lyndon Jones. with Wood coming out ahead on tie-breakers. Phil Weber was the sole winner of the Intermediate (junior high) honors, and Greg Vitko was the Elementary champion.

The Intermediate Team Champion was Roosevelt Junior High, of Eugene, with Jim Herbert, Kevin Grabau, Sheldon Young, and Jerry Emman playing their four positions.

The Elementary team champion, Hanby School (Gold Hill, Oregon, near Grants Pass) consisted of Harold Clever, Dan Ostermiller. Scott Young and Ty Miller.

Clay Kelleher, Joe Mihara, and Mark King along with Dean Ivey directed the individual championships.

Larry Susanka, Terry Fisher and Dean Ivey directed the team championships.

BOOK REVIEWS

by D.L. Brown

An ABC of Chess Problems, by John M. Rice.

Faber & Faber Ltd., London 1970. Hard cover;
349 pages. $6.95

John Rice, current Problem Editor of the "British Chess Magazine" and co-author of two other excellent problem books, presents a composite display of problems in alphabetical form.

From A (for Albino) to Z (for Zeplin-Doubling), he clearly and carefully illustrates all the terms and themes found in popular problem usage. The treatment is thorough and is exemplified by 400 of the world's finest renderings.

While "chess players don't normally give chess problems a chance", Rice introduces them as an art and a challenge. Openly agreeing that problems won't really help your game, he shows that they nonetheless possess all the strategic beauty that chess was ever intended to have.

For composing and solving, there is a good section discussing both these, thinking-through with the reader the methods and ideas. There is also a section reserved exclusively for solving, each problem concluding some phase found earlier in the book.

The diagrams are perfect and the notation is algebraic (the same as used in NWC's problem column). An excellent value - a complete reference work providing years of pleasure.

Andradiana, by Barry J.da C. Andrade. Chess, Sutton Coldfield 1961. Hard cover; 81 pages.
$3.95

From the foreword by the late C.H.O'D. Alexander comes the following sensitive appraisal: Chess Problems were Barry Andrade's life; during his long illness they were his all absorbing interest. Just as he got so much from chess, so he gave as much and more back to it".

This book of Andrade's problems turned out to be a memorial volumn, as he died during its compilation.

The 256 problems (mostly two-movers) cover all of this amiable man's life. The solutions, which are in descriptive notation, are given two or three pages after the problem. Short analysis accompanies most, given by him or sometimes taken from solver's comments.

A light and free book which should give hours of enjoyment. Beginners and experts can learn much from this wonderful collection.

Mate in Two Moves, by Brian Harley. Dover Publications, New York 1931 (1970). Paperback; 216 pages. $2.00

Although first printed in 1931 and republished in 1970, this book is a classic. It contains all the problem elements which are found in today's books, and were it not for dates, many would find it quite modern.

Harley was a gifted writer and editor. He was especially well suited for the beginner, being not only precise but also provocative.

While most of the 174 problems are taken from English sources, the book represents most of the grand old composers.

Solutions in descriptive notation accompany each problem. Great for the novice.

NWC JULY PAGE 218

The American Two-Move Chess Problem, by Kenneth S. Howard. Dover Publications, New York 1962. Paperback; 99 pages. $1.50

In covering 100 years with 212 compositions of U.S. problemists, Howard has somehow managed to overlook many of the best works. But since he has written several books, it seems natural that he would spread them out. This collection of less glamorous problems does, however, expose many worthy and too infrequently reproduced problems.

Howard gives interesting treatment of The American Heritage, Types of Problems, Strategic Elements and Modern Trends.

Algebraic Notation. Good for the price.

Adventures in Composition, by Comins Mansfield.

Daily Post Printers, Liverpool 1948. Hardcover: 198 pages. $3.95

It is often said that nobody can teach someone how to compose a chess problem. Mansfield, however, provides the nearest exception. As players learn to "think like a Grandmas-

As players learn to "think like a Grandmaster", mulling over the pros and cons of game analyses, so can the budding composer; Mansfield is, after all, a FIDE I.G.M. of Composition.

This book has some 45 "windows" into his mind, each viewing the seasoned progression toward a superb end-product. The treatment is surprisingly complete, even dealing with the sensing of success or failure, and ways to improve each. All that's missing is how to acquire the initial creative impulse (something even the genius finds difficult to grasp).

Highly recommended for all those who still haven't earned an International title!

Sam Loyd and His Chess Problems, by Alain C.
White. Dover Publications, New York 1962.
Limp cover; 471 pages. $4.00

Sam Loyd, Father of the American Chess Problem, surely ranks high among the world's greatest. All his compositions are here, along with many amusing chess puzzles as well as several problems by his brothers. (744 diagrams)

White has made this a most readable and enjoyable book. The left-hand page has an average four problems, while the right-hand page is text. The first section has most of Loyd's famous stories and intimate hunks of his personal life, all highly entertaining. The second section illuminates Loyd's problem mind, displaying his genius and wit. One cannot help being taken back to the warm and rich atmosphere of those good old days. This is a tremendous book in which the essence of Loyd actually lives!

Algebraic solutions are below each diagram.

A Guide to Fairy Chess, by Anthony Dickans. The Q Press, Richmond Surrey 1967. Limp cover (10x82); 60 pages. $2.00

Dickins, an expert of Fairy Chess, presents a fairly complete survey of the unorthodox pieces, boards and rules. Not very useful to players or composers, but nonetheless it is well designed for those with wild imaginations; if you will, the "Twillight Zone" of chess! Quite probably it contains the cornerstones of the chess game of tomorrow. It features algebraic notation and several interesting appendices.

The number of players was about double the number of any other recent Idaho event. Play took place at Boise State University Union Bldg in Boise, Idaho. The USCF rated event was directed by Dick Vandenburg, assisted by Ray Wheeler and Steve Ryals. There were 24 Juniors. The prize fund was assisted by local business sponsors.

NWC hopes to be able to send a sample copy of this issue to all the players in hopes they will subscribe.

The tournament sponsors were:
Continental Life & Accident Co.
Idaho Power Co., Boise Cascade
Corp., Idaho First National Bank, Albertson's, First Security Bank of Idaho, Bank of

THE IDAHO CHESS ASSOCIATION PROUDLY PRESENTS THE

Idaho Open Chess Tournament

4508 - 19th Ave. N.E. Seattle, WA 98105 May 20, 1974 Mr. Russell W. Miller Editor, Northwest Chess P.O. Box 1631 Yakima, WA 98907

Dear Mr. Miller,

I have been meaning to write this letter for some time, but the ---- typewriter was in for repairs, and I am too lazy to write out anything by hand. My apologies if its lateness causes you any inconvenience.

First off, I would like to dispense with a little business. Enclosed is a postal money order for $6.50, made out to the Washington Chess Federation. Since you accept checks, I assume a money order is just as good. (I have no checking account, so a money order is the best I can do.) You are probably wondering by now what its for. Simply this:

\$4.00 - for a one year renewal of my WCF membership and subscription to $\overline{\text{NWC}}$. (junior rate)

\$2.50 - for a set of unbound copies of $\overline{\text{NWC}}$ 1973, as advertised in said publication.

As long as I was ordering a set of back issues for '73, I thought I might as well renew my membership at the same time, while I still have the money. I hope sending the two together does not cause extreme difficulty. My WCF membership does not expire until November: I assume you can just extend it through 1975.

I have been reading with interest, and a bit of humor as wall, the raging controversy going on lately between advocates of algebraic vs. descriptive notation. It seems to me that you are all missing the point. Neither is very difficult to learn, if you are anything more than just a two-bit chess buffer. (That doesn't sound right. Maybe it should be duffer. Or perhaps just chess buff'.) Ahem. Anyway, if you survey a typical of NWC, or any other chess publication, for that matter, I imagine you will notice what both systems of notation are used for. Seventy-five to ninety per cent of all chess notation eensists partial or complete games, with or without analysis, and opening or endgame studies. Few people outside of those serious on improving their chess game bother to read such dribble. Fewer still undertake the analysis of games without a chessboard of some type at hand to play out the moves. The question is: can we live with two notations? Isay the answer is yes. Each system has its particular advantages; why destroy a good set-up solely to eliminate the print all games, etc. in the form they are submitted; leave it to the readers to figure out what it means.

Which brings me to my second comment: I would like to see more complete games, opening and/or endgame studies in NWC. I realize original material is very hard to come by, but there must be some outside sources available that can supply material you can reprint. Even CLAR does not carry as much in the way of "annalytical" material as they used to. If you will consider with me for a moment just what kinds of people currently read NWC, I think you will realize that there is a definite need.

I don't think the recent decline in subscribers is due entirely to the post-Bobby Fischer recession. In fact, I strongly suspect the opposite reaction is taking place. More people have become seriously involved with the game of chess in this area, and they are turning more and more to theory-oriented publications for enrichment of their game. Asking high-rated players if they think either CL&B or NWC has helped them at all, the typical reaction is "No, neither one is really worth the money, particularly NWC."

I do not entirely agree; both have enormous potential, I'm sure. However, serious players do not waste their time pouring over a crosstable of the Fish Fork Open, let alone mindless letters such as this one. This leaves only the small-time, 'chess-for-fun' players reading your magazine. Many of these rarely if ever play in a big tournament; consequently, it is hard to keep them all paying $4 or $5 a year just for a Northwest rating. Furthermore, without much in the way of games by well-known players or other analytical material, NWC does little to cultivate knowledgeable young players who are really serious about the game.

There is, no doubt, an opposing view to my philosophy; that smaller magazines such as this one should deal primarily with the for-fun players, and the hard-core woodpushers are more or less on their own. Possibly some kind of compromise can be reached. I do think that if you invest a slightly larger percentage of your time in looking for more theory material, such as the recent series of articles on bishop endings, that it will be well worth it in terms of increased circulation.

Sorry this letter isn't typed for publication; I originally didn't intend it that way. You are perfectly welcome to print it if you want to, however.

Chessically yours,

"Botcat" Bel Newell (2)

'Bobcat' Bill Newell President, U. of W. Chess Club

P.S.: IMPORTANT--the University of Washington 15st tentatively scheduled for the weekend of Nov. 16-17, 1974. Barring unforseen difficulties, the UWCC will sponsor this and one other open tournament during the '74-'75 school year. There may be a few changes in the format of the Open from previous years; we are seeking to improve on last year's 16 entrants. I will send you further details as soon as they are finalized. It would be greatly appreciated if you could include the date of our tournament in your chess calendar. Thankalot. BN

Bennett Annotates.... by Mike Bennett

We are pleased to note that the March/April issue of the Ohio Chess Bulletin has honored our own Randal Andrzejewski (pronounced An-dreh-jeh-ski; the "z " and "w" are silent) by gracing its front page with a smiling portrait of the B.G. Superstar.

Even more significant, in terms of Mr. Andrzejewski's growing reputation in Ohio chess circles, is that on p. 71 of this issue of OCB has presented the now famous Andrzejewski's Problem Corner #2, which first appeared in the Chess Club News (#14) on February 9th. For those with short memories, the problem involved finding the best of three possible mating moves in the following position:

WHAT'S THE BEST MOVE?

a Qal b. Qbl c.Qd2

Mr. Andrzejewski's brilliant solution (that the best move is Qal because it mates quickest) has been contested by Mr. David Wolford, $\underline{\text{OCB}}$ editor, who observes that "Qa1 may be fastest, but it appears to me that the move Qd2 is the best 'mating move' because of the body contact between king and queen"

We would rather pass over with perjorative comment Mr. Wolford's unfortunate and perverted penchant for prurient puns, and get right to the heart of this debate. In point of fact, both solutions are correct and equally brilliant and original. There are, in the position, two best moves, objectively speaking. It is only when we examine the position subjectively, with our own presuppositions aoubt the nature and function of the game of chess, that a choice between these two moves is possible. (It should be obvious, of course, that the third alternative, Qb1, is so absurd, not to mention grotesque, that it need not even be considered in this discussion) The basic difference that exists between Mr. Andrzejedski (pronounced And-rah-jes-key; the "z' and "w" are silent) and Mr. Wolford (pronounced woo-ph-ord; the "g" and "th" are silent) is identical to that which has always existed between pragmatists and artists. Mr. Andrzejewski, with one notable exception which shall be discussed later, is a chess pragmatist par excellance. What cares he for beauty and finesse when a quick karate chop will decide the case? As in problem #2, his search is for the quickest, bloodiest, most efficient and most decisive crush. It's not pretty, but it is certainly effective. Please understant that we are not implying any criticism of Mr. Andrzejewski's style of play. We are merely pointing out what his style is and suggesting that it derives from his notion that chess is a game or contest to be ended as expeditiously as possible. Hence, Qal is the best move.

Mr. Wolford is, we suspect, squarely in the other camp. He is something of an artist, for whom aesthetic considerations are more important than mere expediency. He has a streak of romanticism in him, and he probably beats his wife. He views chess as a work of art, the aim of which is beauty rather than mere victory. For him and others of his ilk, Qd2 is the BEST move for several reasons. First, as the pointed out, it is the best "Mating move" because the king and queen will touch. Therefore, the purpose of the move is in thematic union with the final position. Second, the slow and sweeping glide of the queen across three spaces is much more aesthetically pleasing than the unsightly hop of a single square, and generates a good deal more suspense. For example, as the Queen begins her glide the questions "Will she stop short?" and Will she go too far? are inevitably in every spectator's mind. In the initial solution there is no suspense; the queen either moves to the correct square or falls off the board. Third, the final position after Qd2 is artistically satiskying, with all the pieces in a neat row and the queen separating the two kings but touching both, almost as if she were being shared in a final moment of peaceful reconciliation. After Qal, of course the position of the pieces presents no coherent pattern whatever.

From this discussion it has become clear the BEST move in any given position is a subjective rather than an objective decision, a fact which Chess Life & Review's dogmatice Mr. Evans should strive to consider in future columns.

The ultimate question, therefore, is not so much "What is the best move" as "what is the best theory?" Is chess a game or a potential piece of creative art? Mr. Androxzewejski (pronounced Andy-juice-key; the "x", "z" and "w" are silent) and Mr. Wolford are not the first to raise this question. Neither was Mr. Edward Lasker (pronounced Lass-kur), but he presents an interesting case in his Chess for Fun and Chess for Blood. In annotating one of his games in that book, Mr. Lasker points out a multi-move combination which forces the enemy king from the 8th to the first rank, and there mates him. But someone noted that the mate could have been achieved on the 4th rank, in only half the number of moves. "True" says Lasker, but adds that he prefers the longer version because "it is more beautiful."

In fairness to Mr. Andrzjzmoxjuiski (pronounced Randy-Andy; but really, who cares how to pronounce it. Spelling it has always been the problem around here.) it must be pointed out that he was not always the calculating pragmatist he now appears. However much he may deny it he once had an artistic soul and a romantic bone in that emaciated body. As evidence of this we may recall Andrzejewski's Problem Corner #1, which appeared in the Chess Club News (issue #7) on November 10th, 1973.

Black to move and win in 74 (note: the problem calls for Black to win in 74 moves, not to move and win in 1974 as some have interpreted it.)

Andrzejewski

С

This position was reached after 52 moves of Hanschumaker-Andrzejewski, in round 3 of the Lorain $500,000.00 Open. In the position, Mr. Andrzejewski eschewed the colorless 52....Qg5+ (which forces the exchange of queens,, and leads to immediate victory) and played instead the flamboyant 52...Qc5+! Some members of the audience scoffed at this move, and some even dared to call it a blunder. But they were forced to eat their words 73 moves and two adjournaments later when Mr. Andrzejewski forced his opponent's resignation on move 126. It was clear to everyone, of course, that Mr. Andrzejewski had forseen the entire sequence of moves, and the crowd burst into spontaneous applause.

This is an extreme example, and one of the few we are aware of in Mr. Andræejewski's careet, of a player opting for art over expediency. But who can deny that it was worth it? In fact, we were disappointed that the OCB ignored this particualr composition, which does even more to illustrate Mr. Andrzejewski's talent and genius than Problem #2.

Whatever the final resolution of the debate between chess artists and chess pragmatists, we are please that our own Mr. Andrzejewski has done so much to illustrate both sides of the argument.

In Vol III No. 20 4/27/74, Roger Blaine wrote: "I believe there is a minor oversight in Andrzejewski's problem corner #2, Mr. A states that the solution is Qal!!, and Mr. Bennett says 'After Qal, the position of the pieces presents no coherent pattern'. Well, Mr. Bennett, do you not realize that pieces on al dl and d3 form the famous 3-4-5 right triangle, know the world over for its great beauty, durability and craftsmanship?"

Your list of prizewinners in 1973 ACS tournaments was extremely interesting. I have just completed compiling a similar list for winners of tournaments reporting crosstables and prizes in J'ADOUBE!.

The Cincinnati Chess Federation and four local clubs sponsored 26 open USCF events here in 1973, and 208 players won cash prizes. Our entry fees are probably much smaller, and the total cash awarded is reported by the organizers as $3050.67 for these 26 tournaments.

as $3050.67 for these 26 tournaments.
Richard Horvitz, 18, led with $135.00, followed by Mike Dickman, 20, with $100.92. Five out of the top seven were H.S. or callege students.

Dear Mr. Miller.

I was amazed, albeit not amused, at the content and tone of Mr. Karch's comment regarding the escape of Claude Bloodgood during the course of a chess tournament inside the prison in which he was confined. The vacuity of Mr. Karch's logic defies belief. Chess as a tool for rehabilitation has never claimed either totality of effectiveness nor based its worth on that premise. Indeed, Mr. Karch does not seem to aver the obverse: did the others NOT escape because chess DID work for them as a rehabilitative tool?

Chess deserves to be played in and out of prison not because it can DO SOME GOOD to correct behavior, but because it is an avocation that requires some mental expenditure, some skill, some interest, some intellectual dedication—and everybody deserves that because he is human, not because he is an unincarcerated human, or because he is imprisoned. I thought the use of the word "lenient" was a curious choice, for that verbiage implies that the chess community has, in some way, in the process of providing opportunity for prisoners to play chess, been charitable, benevolent, good hearted. That is, in the word of the bigot's here, "a lot of crapola": you accomplish nothing by denial of food except hunger—and bitterness; you accomplish nothing by denial of chess to immates except intellectual starvation—and bitterness. It might have been more accurate to question incarceration as rehabilitation tool; I have been keenly interested in the role of chess in the lives of prison immates. For reasons and to what extent not the topic of this letter. The escape of Claude B. has in no way diminished my enthusiasm for promoting such activity.

Sincerely.

Heen Elbarren

I ask these questions within the specific context of B. Spassky's article in CL&R for May 1974 on the Karpov-Polugaevsky match. An interesting thing about this struggle is that within this chess microcosom we have a scientific control situation repeated four times apiece. In a sense every chess same begins with a controled position: the original set-up of the men. But that control position is imposed on the players from reality; as the behaviorists claim everything is. Thus it is not surprising that one player invariably opens with P-K4, another with P-Q4, he is not in the behaviorists view making a decision, he is responding to stimulia the chessboard.

RUSSELL'S CHESS CHATS BY RW Miller

The U.S. Junior Invitational tournament runs June 25 -July 2. Players who are going to take part are: Larry Christiansen of Riverside, Calif. 2350 rating, David Berry of Los Angeles 2279, Craig Barnes of Berkeley 2260, Mark Diesen age 16 of Baltimore 2351, Peter Winston of New York 2259, Jon Frankle of Des Moines 2251, Michael Pastor of Philadelphia 2235 and David Striker of New York 2207.

Student Team Tournment runs July 16-8/1 in Teaside, England. The US team to take part will be: Roy Ervin of Santa Monic 2344, Ross Stoutenborough of Riverside 2347, Craig Chellstorp of Chicago 2427, Sal Matera of Brooklyn 2385, Eugene Meyer of Woodstock, NY 2346, and John Jacobs of Dallas 2343.

The playoff between Victor Korchnoi and Anatoly Karpov will be in Leningrad during September 1974. They have played only 5 games, each winning 2 and $1~draw.~\underline{NWC}$ printed three games last month, one game can be found this month, so we need one more to complete the group.

By the time you read this 21st Chess Olympiad will be over. With Fischer not playing the US papers are not giving any coverage. Vancouver BC paper reports that as of June 15 the US and England will make the A finals. Canada was in the same group and since only two teams advance to A finals they did not make it. Soviet Union in Group 1 also advanced. Paper reported that Scotland might make it from that group! Spanish was in A finals for sure from group 4 and Cuba and Yugoslavia made it from group 3. 78 teams took part al toge ther.

Las Palmas 1974 was won by L. Ljubojevic of Yuggslavia with 11-4. Tied for 2nd were World Student Champion A. Belyavsky of USSR and F. Olafsson a Grandmaster from Iceland. Belyavsky made the grandmaster norm of 9 with a point to spare. 10 of 16 players were GMs. Grouped at 95-55 were: L.Polugaevsky USSR, G. Garcia Cuba (also getting GM Norm), Andersson of Sweden, and Bent Larsen of Denmark. Larsen won 8 as did the tourney winner. At 7½ alone was Quinteros of Argentina who won 7 lost 7 and drew 1. Our own Walter Browne and Kavalek scored 61 to tie for 11-12 spot. Only the two Soviet players Belyavsky and Polugaevsky did not lose a game. NWC JULY PAGE 224

However when a scientist is faced with empirical data like the total and 13 and 9 repeated moves in each of the eight games he must ask the inductive question: for 88 moves the players respond to the same stimuli in the same manner then why: "10 B-Q3; 13...KR-K1;10 b-R2 P-QR3 11 N-QR4; 13...N-K4 14.N-Q4;10 B-R2 P-QR3 11 B-N1; 13...N-K4 14 P-R5 KN=Q2;10 B-R2 B-N2;13... N-K4 P-R5 KR-K1"? Such is the basis for opening theory.

Spassky concludes that the repetition of position led to Karpov's advantage and although it had it's positive side that Polugaevsky's opening reporitione was "limited". It seems to me that the effort to achieve an experimentally controlled positiom on Karpovs part was deliberate and within the context of the Soviet school of empirical play.

Spassky makes the comment that Polugaevsky is in the category of players "less inclined to trust their own intuition, their own feeling for the position than a concrete calculation." He also says Karpov is a) inclined to an "intuitive manner of play"

b) an improved player whose "leap" is "connected with an accumulation of experiance."

I think the relationship to the questions I opened with is clear. There may be some who will react to the former worldmaster's perspective in the way baseball players reacted to Jim Boutin's book "Ball Four", by acted to Jim Boutin's book "Ball Four", by saying in effect 'what is his E.R.A." ie Spassky has lost two recent matches. It is interesting to note that the present world champion is Christian and therefore(correct me somebody if I am wrong) accepts the notio of the existance of free will.

I think that the behaviorist who wants to keep his belief system intact should regard, rightly, the chess board with some wariness. After staring at various positions for four hours one is inclined to come away with the curious illusion that one is really after all making decisions.

A.J. Miles of England won Birmingham International with 71 just one half point short of GM norm in the Category 5 event. G. Tringov of Bulgaria was 2nd 7-3. England with Keene, Whiteley, Markland, Bellin, Hartston on the team won Clare Benedict Team event with 1812. West Germany was full point behind.

England won a 10 Board match with West Germany 11-9. This was the first win ever for England in a full scale match of 8 adults, 2 juniors and 1 woman. IM Dr. J. Penrose drew both games with GM Robert Huebner. GM Andersson of Sweden won 11th Capablanca Memorial with 11½-3½. Gufeld and Vasiukov both GMs from USSR were 2nd and 3rd at 11 and 10. Also at 10 the GM norm was Knaak of East Germany. International Master Keene of England won 2nd section as Category 4 with 12-3. The International Master norm was 10 egualed by A. Rodriguez of Cuba a non-titled player. 13th International Tournament Warna a Catergory 6 was won by IM Spiridonov of Bulgaria on tie-break over non titled players Hulak of Yugoslavia and Ermenkov of Bulgaria all 85-45. IM norm was 8. According to CHESS BARBS by Jude Acers in Berkeley Barb of June 14-20,1974, IM Peter Biyiasas won top section of Paul Masson American Class Championships 5-1. Last round game between Biyiasas and Kim Commons decided the title when Biyiasas won. First place was worth $2,350.00. The 42 point finishers: GM Walter Browne, US Co-Champ John Grefe, Dennis Waterman and Roy Ervin split $500.00. In "C" group Roger Crosier of Seattle tied for 1st 55-1 good for $333.33.650 players took part.

If you would like to get Jude Acers column every week for a year send $10.00 to Berkeley Barb, P.O. Box 1247, Berkeley, CA 94701 and they will put you on the mailing list. You get all the Berkeley Barb not just Jude Acers but for chessplayers that is the most important part. Tell them NWC sent you.

Concerning Notation in Northwest Chess. If anyone wants descriptive notation so badly, they are welcome to the job of BC Editor. I generally print the games as they are sent in. It takes at least twice as much time to type a descriptive game as an algebraic one. Besides, it is almost impossible to read a descriptive game in paragraph form, whereas algebraic is native in this form. From a completely utilitarian point of view, the descriptive notation wears out more typewriters, due to excessive carriage shifts, besides annoying more typists. My advice to 'descriptimists' is: Don't resist algebraic - it is an historical inevitability - learn algebraic you'll find there's just as much fun in giving your opponent the h rush as advancing the King's Rook's Pawn to the firth rank in order to weaken his castled position.

BCCF Annual General Meeting June 15, 1974

Fourteen people attended the BCCF AGM at Fourteen people attended the BCCF AGM at the Vancouver Public Library. The meeting was convened at 11 am. The minutes were read and approved, followed by the reports of the Officers: Mr. Hare, the Junior Chess Director; Alan Hill for the Chess Store; Bruce Harper, the Publicity Director; Jonathan Berry, the BC Editor; George Laszlo, the Tournament Director; Colin Aykroyd, the Auditor; Brian Potter, the President and Treasurer, and a written report from Alex Wood. report from Alex Wood.

There was a discussion of the events at the BC Championship. It was decided that it was hopeless to try to finish the tournament, so a triangular quadruple-round match between Jonathan Berry, Elod Macskasy and Joseph Oszvald was arranged to decide the title. The six players who had withdrawn had agreed to give all their rights to the BC Championship and the provincial grant to the winner of the Vancouver Closed Championship, who turned out to be Berry.

The BCCF will no longer underwrite the hall rentals up to $75 for B.C. Championship qualifying events. (In other words, Bylaw 2.J. of the Constitution has been repealed) It was voted to make the necessary constitutional changes to obtain Tax-exempt privileges from the Federal government. The BC Government has apparently offered to back a tournament in 1975 to the tune of at least $10,000. It is tentatively scheduled to have the tournament in late May or early June of 1975 as a mammoth open event, with possibly a closed International event at the same time, if finances permit. At least thirty volunteers will be needed to help with this event. will be needed to nelp with this event.

tournament will likely be held in Vancouver, with UBC being the prime location.
The 1974 Canadian Junior Chess Champion-ship will likely be held in Vancouver. Any one interested in helping with organization, direction or hospitality should contact Jonathan Berry. The tournament will be for 10 players between December 26 and 31, 1974. It is hoped to run between 10 and 12 tour naments in 1974-75. Each of the members of the Tournament Committee will ran one.

The posts of Commercial and Industrial created at this meeting, the former being filled by Brian Potter, and the latter

The 1975 BC Championship will be an 8 man round-robin to be held on the Victoria Day Weekend, with four players from qual-ifying tour naments and four from the rat-ing list. In case of duplication of winners, the remaining players will be chosen from the rating list. All players must play in at least two designated (not necessarily qualifying) events. Games to be played 1, 2, 2, 2, A vote of thanks was given to Brian Potter for his fine job as President.

1974 British Columbia Championship

The 1974 version of the BC Championship ended in an unfortunate incident in the penultimate round. The tournament had been quite peaceful, as can be seen from the crosstable, though many of the games were extremely hard-fought. In round 5, Dr. Macskasy failed to appear within an hour for his game with Ken Morton, and was forfeited. Dr. Macskasy lodged a complaint with BCCF President Bran Potter, who ruled that the game must be replayed. At this point players 3-8 withdrew from the tournament in protest. The arguments for replay were: that the round was at a different time from the previous rounds, and that the tournament director did not post the times of the rounds in the tournament room. It was also felt that in a round robin tournament all the games should be played. The arguments for forfeiture were:that the laws of chess are sufficiently explicit on this issue, and that the player who had lost had been a party to the scheduling of the rounds, albeit a few weeks earlier. There were, of course, further pointson each side, but this is the gist of the argument.

FULL BROOK FERAL

Fiery Nigel Fullbrook, Vancouver's answer to Mount Vesuvius, pulled off another success in the outside world by winning the Canadian Junior Championship in Toronto. Nigel will now represent Canada in the World Junior to be held later this summer in the Philippines. Fullbrook took the title on tiebreak over Kevin Spraggett of Montreal, who had been chosen for the Canadian Olympic team, and Peter Nurmi of Toronto, once touted by "Chess Canada" as 'Canada's Next Grandmaster?'.

My apologies to STEVEN CAMPAU, whom I had paired in this event when he had actually entered the tournament on the following day. Apologies also, to anyone else who may have been affected by my mistake. There was a very strong field of four "experts" plus 5 class A and there were, of course several surprizes and upsets as can be seen by the crosstable. More turnouts like this and this type of event will be on the calendar more often. Thanks to all. by LTD GARY D. AULT

I believe that this tournament 7.50 proves, at least to my satisfaction, that one cannot hold two TORNADO'S in one weekend. It 7.50 does however show that we have 3.33 several serious chess players 3.33 around -- who are ready to do battle at just about any time. Most of the players here were pretty tired and it showed in their play. But, once again we had a strong (but small) field, with some of these lower rated players on the rise. Of course their getting invaluable experience against what appear to be the strongest players in the area. Thank you again. By LTD GARY D. AULT typed by KM never seriously in doubt and Mr. Dean had plenty of time between rounds to get some studying in. Dennis P. Hill, a recent arrival from California, made a very poor showing for a USCF 1903 rated player, but the new surroundings, moving, changing of jobs, etc., could very well play havoc with ones game. Look for a new and improved Dennis Hill in future events.

David Joyner's second place finish wasn't a complete surprise to those of us in the area. He studies and plays hard, he is improving rapidly. Going in the fifth and final round, six players had a shot at second place but Daves win over Barrett Corrigan (who has had two bad tournaments in a row) clinched second for him.

The strangest thing that occured in the tournament was the first three prizes being won clearly - with no tie-breaks! - (made it quite easy on the Director).

Thanks to all that participated and special thanks to the Directors wife - Elizabeth, who puts up with this and is very helpful, energetic and thoughtful. BY GARY D. AULT TD

It all started in February, 1974, when Mr. James R. Schroeder was brave enough to speak out on chess notation. He states that 80% of those who read $\overline{\text{CL&R}}$ don't like algebraic notation.

Well, Mr. Sphroeder, at the OMSI-Junior Chess Tournament, our chess team saw no one using algebraic at the regional or state finals. Litation to my opponents and many other juniors, and they DO NOT want to change to algebraid. One such person finished on a team that qualified to get an OGF membership. He asked me (after I interrogated him on algebraic) if NWC had algebraic notation in their chess games. I said, "Yop!" He said, "Yuk!!!!" Others who everheard our chat expressed their feelings at my answer like this. "Bummer!"......Oh (expletive deleted)!"......I won't waste my time on that junk!" If you don't want to turn off many young players and/or potential players, DO NOT use algebraic. This paragraph is dedicated to Bill Reid. I would help you and Ol' Gro in a brawl anytime. Et grabs me like a mosquito can grab an elephant. All Et does is name a space on the board. Qidl says that the queen took something on dl - a Knight, Bishop, or Rook, etc. Yet some say algebraic isn't ambiguous! Phocey!!

I agree with Wes McCaig. Most chess columnists and authors use Rescriptive in their works because THEY WANT THEM READ! I know I said many others wouldn't buy an algebraic work! No way!

there was a trase for jumping off 1,000 cliffs, would you jump too? You also state that most people want to do things the easy way.
Algebraic is about as difficult as Descriptive, which isn't difficult at all. Besides, sometimes the "easiest" is not always the best.

Meep score — in algebraich Hai Hai Hai you algebraics say as you smalle. MOWI Lock at their example: 1. 44 d5 2. c4 e5 3. dxe5 d4 4. e3 Bb4 ch 5. Bd2 dxe3 6. Bxd4. First of all, there is NO PIECE of the elementary kids were when they read this. As a result, a few came dp and asked mo to record moves. I taught them how to in Descriptive. They said they liked it because they could remember places better. Teaching them Descriptive was as easy as pie. David Mosser must not be too good a teacher.

Those who may algebraic saves space and is cheaper to use, can build their houses out of cardboard "to make them less expendings and build their their Mo" x 10° to save space."

menfortable with descriptive. Just because some want to "itch up" descriptives, don't let 'em! Let's stick with a good thing. the trend in America continues to drift toward more profit and the expense, everything will be CHRAP! I feel algebraic is a set and inadequate substitute for a long-time standing, sturdy, and good ohers notation - DESCRIPTIVE! Most people I know are the metric system because great scientists have used English measures, a position that distorts the position of the expert to AMAX its opposite.) some answer, though I wonder if some of the writers were sober when they started their letter. (example: Defending descriptive because great playersand writers have used it, which is rather like rejecting The letters denouncing the use of algebraic notation deserve

But what arguements are presented in favor of descriptive?

One finds it confusing, appartently having forgotten the years of practice he has had (and needed) to learn descriptive. From the view of the outsider, algebraic is the simplier and less confusing, taking less than half the time to learn.

Some claim there is romance to descriptive. But the romance is desired, why not make every move a psychodelic poster? For that matter, algebraic is superior here in some respects. For example, one of the major standards of beauty is the simplicity of expression. A point at which descriptive is gaudy by contrast.

It can be noted in passing that almost all the momance of descriptive is that of the familiar over the strange. At this peint we get to the only serious objection, which lew of the objections in NW seem to make seriously.

The cost of converting to deservative/is not small, though difficult to measure. The total of irritation of leasuning a new system, instruction, and the extra errors of anything mew, etc. should total in the millions. That is a considerable fivestment. But the return on that investment is even larger. Consistently, chess editors tell us they can save space and publish extra games. Once established, the costs of instruction for chess notation will be far lower with algebraic than descriptive. Co-ordination with the rest of the chess world has its advantages as well. A larger market for chess books results because less seperate printing is needed. The vst mass of foreign chess publication becomes more availible and better American play results. Etc. etc. In sum, most of the objections to algebraic are frivilfous. While there are real costs to converting, the benefits are still greater.

HOW TO WIN LOST CHESS GAMES

There comes the time in every chessplayer's life that he discovers he is busted. When this fact appears around the tenth move, however, he may not want to resign end be the first loser of the round. Such was the case in the following game. After blundering on the fifth move, and steadily attaining a worse game, I finally sought some counterplay. Then realizing that I was about to drop another piece, I sought salvation in a sac. Remember, every position has some C.P. (Cheapo potential). While I use algebraic, the score is transposed to ambiguousmotation for those who like it.

The tourney was at first to be in two sections, a open and a novice. Due to the poor turnout it was decided to combine the two into one three round tourney but still keep seperate entry fees and prizes. It was both USCF and NW rated with NW ratings used for pairings and prizes. Larry Allyn and Bob Allyn tied for first in the open division with Larry taking first on a coin toss since no tie-breaker would work. Burdette Wiser won first in the novice division by upsetting Carol Miller in the final round. It was sponcered by the Columbia Basin Chess Assoc. and directed by Teddy Garoutte.

Tied for first with unbreakable tie-breaks. Larry took first position on cross-table by a coin toss.

MORE INFORMATION ON CHESS OLYMPIAD

There were 8 preliminary groups. 89 countries registered in advance but only 73 showed up. One team started play with only 2 players and dropped out when it was apparent that no one else from their country was comming. USA and Canada drew their match 2-2. Robert Byrne and Walter Browne won but Kavalek and Lombardy both lost. I don't know to who.

Teams in "A" Finals are: Russia, Hungary, Holland, Bulgaria, USA, Finland, Spain, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Romania, Sweden, England, Czechoslavakia, Philippines! Wales!! and Argentina.

Teams in "B" Finals are: Cuba, Tunisia, France, Belgium, Portugal, Israel, Austria, Iceland, Canada, Switzerland Scotland, Denmark, Norway, Poland, Italy and Colombia. Event ends June 30.

The Bremerton Spring Open was a particularly hard fought tournament with no perfect scores. The "black horse" winner was Charles Cordell who deservedly claimed the first place trophy by scoring upset victories over two Class "A" players. Tom Spetter with an equally good score was awarded the second place trophy on the basis of Selkoff points. Alan Torkelson recorded a "no-loss" tournament to claim the third place trophy. Brett Fahey and Keagan Kauzlario playing in their first WCF tournament are to be complimented for winning the first junior and first unrated trophies respectively.

Tom Spetter and Alan Torkelson as the two highest Kitsap County residents join Larry Swanson and Phil Baumgaertner as contenders for the Kitsap County Championship to be held in November. Four other residents will be qualified in the next two Bremerton tournaments, Seattle residents are specifically invited to visit Bremerton by Ferry to play in the Bremerton Summer Open on July 28. The event will be held at the TMCA which is approximately 10' from the ferry depot. With numerous cafes in adjacent blocks, Ferry riders would be wise to leave their gas monster in Seattle.

KINGSGATE KNIGHTS CHESS CLUB NEWS

May 15th we had our Simultaneous Ex. with Vladimir Pafnutieff. This was supposed to be advertised in NWC but a breakdown occurred somewhere along the line and this fine event was not published. We still had a turnout of 16 people. Mr. Pafnutieff took the white pieces about 6:30 and by 9:15 all was over. Score for the Master 14-0-2. The two scoring were William Schill and an unidentified female player. (This is all done second hand as I was not able to make it there due to the flu, but Steve Baskett handled things for us very well.)

We have two items for sale to NWC readers. The first is a "Portland Twin" chass and draughts board imported from England for correspondence games complate with two connected boards in notebook fashion with two sets of men to be placed in slots, quite like the postal Chess Recorder Album in Chess Life & Review only much cheaper and same quality sells for $1.00 + .10¢ for postage. The second item is a Kingsgste Knights bumper sticker, luminous red for 75¢. Ws pay return postage. Make chacks payable to: The Kingsgate Knights Chess Club and send orders to Ric Hart, 13234 N.E. 133rd, #4G, Kirkland, Wn. 98033.

Our club now has 34 paid members and usually in the twenties et the meetings. Please come join us some time. If you only wish to play for a day and not join, social play is 25¢.

Dear Mr. Miller,

In the June 1973 issue of $\underline{\text{NWC}}$ there was a letter from Stephen L. Chase concerning the problem of conflicting tournaments and poor directorship in Washington. It's been over a year since his letter was published and there has been no responce to it in the pages of $\underline{\text{NWC}}$. I think it's time for some action to be taken on this matter.

It may be thought that now that the "Fisher Fever" has cooled off that there mey not be a problem in these respects as there seems to be less tournament activity each month. But this is not the case. Recently I've been involved in both of these problems. At one tournament recently there was sincre doubts of the knowage of the director on the proper way to direct a chess tourney. When we (the players) questioned the way the tourney was being directed we were told that this was "my" (the directors) tournament and that he would direct it the way he wanted to. I won't go into the many mistakes that were made that day in pairings, color alloctment, etc. but there were enough complaints for a formal protest to be written and signed by over half of the players there. After thinking it over I decided against sending it in as, in my opinion, it would accomplish nothing but hurt feelings. I don't believe that the director in question did these things on purpose, but because he didn't know the proper way that a tournament should be run to be rateable.

In the matter of conflicts there is no excuse. I had had a tourney planned for about 4 months and had announcements published for 2 months in NWC. Then another director decided to have a tournament the same weekend in the same acea. Result, both tourneys had very poor turnout. When asked the other director about this he said that he didn't even check to see if he was conflicting with anyone. He just sent a annoucement to NWC in time to beat the deadline. It's this kind of poor organization that hurts chess instead of helping it. The players have to chose between 2 or more tourneys when, if better planned, they could attend all of them.

One of Mr. Chase's suggestions was a T. D. Certification program for Washington Chess Federation. I would give my full support to such a program. As a certified LTD I believe such a program could only help the quality of chess organization in Washington. If a director has to prove that he or she are qualified to direct or be subject to removal of their directing privilege you know that the tourney will be run to the directors best ability as he has a lot more to lose in the way of certification, respect, etc. than could posibly be gained by misdirecting.

In the matter of conflicts Mr. Cahse suggest dividing the state into areas in which conflicting tournaments wouldn't be announced or rated by NWC. With this to contend with, organizers would be sure to check if they are conflicting with another tournament. To accomplish this someone tould be gotten to check in coming tournament announcements as USCF does.

I propose that WCF appoint a committed to check into these matters and take action to improve the quality of chess organization in Washington. I invite comment on this as these problems concern use all.

SEATTLE CHESS CLUB NEWS WE ARE MOVING !!!

Beginning in July, the Seattle Chess Club will convene in the meeting foom of the Immanuel LUTHERN CHURCH, 1209 THOMAS.

This facility is easly accessible by both car and bus. Drivers should take the Denny Way exit off of I-5 and then head 2 blocks north to Thomas. There is plenty of free parking in the church lot. For the bus riders, there is a convenient stop located one block west on Fairview next to the Seattle Times Building.

MEETING TIMES will be twice a week for this month. 7.12

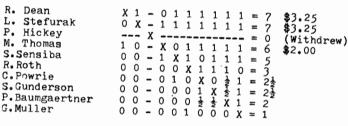

MEETING TIMES will be twice a week for this month: 7-12 Friday nights, and 1-6 Sunday afternoons. A Third Day will be added later.

One more advantage, which we know will appeal to several people, is that we will be able to offer free coffee to all players.

We are sure that our new site will be favorable to all of our regular members, and will prove to have enough appeal for other chess players in the area. SEE YOU THERE!

Experts Randy Dean and Leo Stefurak tied for first place in the Seattle Chess Clubs May Speed event. Leo came close to a perfect score, but was foiled in the last game by rival Dean, who snatched Leo's King when he was kind enough to leave it en prise.
